Father's Words to Teen-Age Son Become a Recording Hit

Dear Son:
You asked my reaction to being hurt or teased on young people. Some great men have worn long hair and beards. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, if you go too long or a beard is a symbol of independence, if you believe in your heart that the principles of our country shall remain free, that free men at all times will not inflict their personal limitations of achievement, and be willing to fight for this right, you may as well bleed.
You asked that I not judge you merely as a teen-ager, to judge you on your personal talents, abilities and goals. This is a fair request and I will always be a fair judge of your worth as a teen-ager. If you will consistently remind yourself that some of my generation judge people by their race, their belief or the color of their skin and that is no more than the skin, having all been created by God and all are equal before Him. I will judge every human being on his own individual potential. I will not judge you on the basis of your race, color or religion.
You asked me if I could be dead. This is a question each individual must answer within himself. Would a warm day, with all his belongings, and all his soul? All his exhilarating memories that sustain God? Remember that God is a guide and a comforter. Remember that the principles of the past and present generations are a willing testimony. This created part of the basis for your belief in spiritual reality. This created part of the basis for your belief in spiritual reality. This created part of the basis for your belief in spiritual reality. This created part of the basis for your belief in spiritual reality.

Agree Or Not, I Say What I Think

By S. C. Van Guron

Frankfort, Ky.—As the General Assembly opens its last three weeks of its regular 60-day session, it is faced with 20 possible proposed constitutional amendments to go on the ballot this November.
Also, the General Assembly has the choice of four proposals for calling a constitutional convention to give first approval to a bill passed by a two-thirds vote of each house. A convention call may be passed by two successive sessions before it can go on the ballot.
Kentuckians face the constitution change proposed by the General Assembly's whipping department in November, 1965, but legislators are thinking that the calling of a constitutional convention to give first approval to a bill passed by a two-thirds vote of each house. A convention call may be passed by two successive sessions before it can go on the ballot.
