Clear Thinking Needed

Congressional restraint in the matter of passage of a gun-control law is commendable. Majority of men will probably agree with reasonable legislation. But to gun-control laws can ever prevent acts such as have taken the lives of three of our foremost citizens.

Recent Coast columnist, in commenting on gun, has said to say: "Many of those who will the loudest for gun controls are those who know least about shooting and have never had to protect life of property with and take habits from millions of other Americans."

Nose Dive For Happiness

Your dollar will probably buy a little more than the water in the well you dig. It is reported that even with the 10 per cent surcharge and the inflation reduction in spending demanded by Congress, the federal deficit for 1969 will be around $20 billion--$5 billion more than the deficit for 1968.

Farm & Home

A man's farm may be his castle, but whether it's an apartment in the city or a farm, it's a place where you can't get away from it. It's a place where you can't get away from it.

MERCURY VAPORS

This old remark about, "You don't mind the water in the well you dig" book on a new meaning for me this week. Here I was just minding my own business casting a purple worm into the water.

Walking Horse Joins Other Kentucky Winners

Will the Kentucky Walking Horse Festival take place at the same place as the traditional winner?

If the answer is "yes," the Valley Walking Horse Festival may be used as an example.

Of the 10 classes, in the first annual Valley Walking Horse Festival, 13 were won by Kentucky-led Walking Horses.

The Festival, in Burlington, at the Boone County Fairgrounds, was sponsored by the first organized Ohio Valley Walking Horse Association.

Formed just last January, the association consists of members from Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, and West Virginia.

Not only that, young Nancy Euse, daughter of Fred Euse, Holers, rode two of the race-able horses to victory in the first three classes.

The focus came through again when their horse, Stormy Midnight, won the Grand Championship of the Festival.
