The Stupid Goat

A commencing writer for the News-Sun, Knoxville, Indiana, writes of the stupidity of the goat and how it has been tempted beyond our freedom and why it is so hard to get it back. The goat is a stupid animal, and it is hard to get it back. It is a stupid animal, and it is hard to get it back. It is a stupid animal, and it is hard to get it back.

An Important Day

A few years ago, a U.S. Supreme Court decision was made regarding the Bill of Rights. This was a very important day for the people of this country. It was a day when the rights of the people were protected and the government was held accountable. This was a day when the people of this country were reminded of their rights and the importance of the Bill of Rights.

Agree Or Not,

I say what I think. In 1967, the young support in the Democratic Party was strong. It was a time when the young people were making their voices heard. It was a time when the young people were making their voices heard. It was a time when the young people were making their voices heard.

Proposed Congressional legislation to regulate surface mining would open the door to large-scale federal intervention in state programs for development and conservation of natural resources.

The bill would give the Secretary of Interior broad powers, including the rejection of a state's plan not to his liking and substitution of federal regulation of surface mining. The bill would not provide for an appeal procedure from the Secretary's decision. His disapproval of state programs would become final without recourse to review by any administrative or judicial tribunal.

Farm & Home

Area Extension Agents, Ellet J. Hoffinger, Margie H. Wilson, Huston T. McCarty
The nation's 4-H club members are making a sizable contribution to conservation and maintenance of forests and trees everywhere. In the last ten decades, more than 1-1/2 million 4-H youths have been trained in forestry practices leading to logging in the Cooperative Extension Service. An estimated quarter-million projects alone, and involving 81,000 boys and girls.

Mineral extraction by surface mining is an essential industrial activity to provide vitally needed raw materials and fuel. The economic development of each state has heretofore depended on the government and the people of the state, and this policy has led to the position of pre-eminent economic strength.

Department Of Fish And Wildlife Predicts Bright Prospects

During the latter stages of April and early part of May the weather interposed greatly with Kentucky fishermen, but the white bass runs in the past few weeks were exceptional. The "run" of the white into the feeder streams, was interrupted by the weather in Herrington Lake and Lake Cumberland, with excellent success fishing, Rough River Reservoir had a record for the greatest white bass catch in history, with limit after limit of 50 per day being taken over a period of about two weeks. On given days fish catches were made on Lake Cumberland, Herrington and Dale Hollow, but prolonged runs were disrupted by inclement weather.

At this time the black bass are comparatively scarce. They are being spotted and spotted for a light. The fisherman's catch of black bass is being reported.
