Telephone Talk

by Your Telephone Manager
CHARLES A. HARRIS

AS ONE OF OVER THREE THOUSAND VOLUNTEERS in Blue Grass Council, Boy Scouts of America I am grateful to Southern Bell for supplying this opportunity to "talk" with you about Scouting.

IF YOU ARE LIKE ME you may be wondering why Bell should be interested in Scouting. My conclusion is that they are concerned about people, its present and future customers. Its present and future success. Thus Scouting's focus on character, citizenship, mental and physical fitness is significant to them over the long pull.

RIGHT NOW, Scouting helps provide a wholesome environment and a better community in which employees live and raise their families.

HERE IN OUR BLUE GRASS COUNCIL only one boy in ten belongs to Scouting. Throughout America about one boy in four is a Cub Scout or Explorer. This should concern you. It does us and we are determined to do something to increase the number of boys in Scouting.

DURING APRIL, a friend will call on you an explain plans to improve our Scouting program. Won't you please listen and then decide how you can help.

REMEMBER Scouting isn't the answer to today's problems. It is an opportunity to help develop men to meet them.

COOK OUT ANYONE! — It isn't a bit of modern agriculture, only a chair and grill in the snow reminding us of carefree summer days. It can't be as long as it has been before the great put-of-boars calls, and men will again own the aprons for "hooking on the grill."

because of installation and operation costs.

Reduced costs is the main advantage from cooling cow's heads and necks only to reduce milk production losses in hot weather. It is less expensive than cooling the entire barn.

Mr. Hahn first determined milk production levels of 10 Holstein cows in a room cooled to 65 degrees. He then confined the cows with their heads and necks in individual air-conditioned enclosures.

By regulating the temperatures in the enclosures, the engineer learned that:

(1) When cows breathed air warmed to room temperature—85 degrees—milk production declined to 75 percent of what it was in the 65-degree environment.

(2) When cows breathed air cooled to 60 degrees, milk production was 91 percent of normal.

(3) When cows breathed air cooled to 50 degrees, milk production was 90 percent of normal.

Record USDA Credit
More than 76,397 of the nation's family farmers received a calendar year record of $548,088,000 in loans advanced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration in 1967 for farm ownership and operating credit purposes.

The family farmers, participating in the agency's supervised credit program, used the funds to buy, improve or develop farms, refinance debts, and make needed adjustments or pay operating costs.

When 1967 ended, farm families that included nearly 685,000 people benefiting from these programs which serve farmers having no other source of real estate and operating credit.

Including loans carried over from previous years, the Farmers Home Administration had approximately 182,000 farm ownership and operating loans outstanding on Dec. 31.

Farmer's Home Administration extended $243 million in farm ownership credit in 1967 to 12,612 family farmers. It also provided supervisory help to over 90,000 farm families.

The credit programs helped family farmers to enlarge their farms, buy farms, and construct, improve or repair farm homes and service buildings as well as refinance debts. Farm ownership credit also was used to drill wells and otherwise improve water supply systems for home use, livestock and irrigation.

Private sources provided 98 percent of the funds for the 1967 farm ownership loans that were made on insured basis. Operating loans were made from deposits of funds advanced in previous years.

Among other purposes, operating loans credit was used to purchase machinery, equipment and supplies, and to finance pasture improvements, including fences.

This credit also was used to make minor real estate improvements and to refinance debts. These loans help farmers make needed adjustments in their operations.
