WATCHING—Yep, they're watching the camera instead of the paste up operation, but you can't blame them. Shown are members of the St. Nicholas County Elementary School fifth or sixth grade.

any one year is quite small. For example, the probability of a twister striking a community even in areas prone to the storm is about once in 250 years.

There have been disastrous exceptions. Oklahoma City has weathered 25 twisters since 1952. Ballyva, Mississippi was surprised twice within 25 minutes in March, 1943. Twisters hit Coodell, Kansas, on May 20 in 1916, 1917 and 1918.

Tornadoes may occur in any month, but they strike most frequently in April, May and June. Certain conditions favor indistinguishable moist warm air at low levels and cool, dry air at higher levels; a southerly wind at the surface and a strong over-riding wind from different direction.

Suddenly, from the midst of a thundercloud, a dark funnel issues out with air that speeds across the ground. The average tornado measures only about four miles, but spreads incredible destruction in its wake.

Up a tree, explodes houses; winds estimated at more than 300 miles an hour roar around a core of low air pressure, turning splintered trees into deadly missiles, spreading trees, and hurling people and animals hundreds of yards. A Minnesota twister tossed an 83-ton railroad car and its 117 passengers 50 feet through the air and left them in a ditch.

Allen D. Pearson, who heads the Weather Bureau's National Severe Storms Forecast Center at Kansas City, Missouri, advocates a vigorous community preparedness program to offset the peril.

"Many," says Mr. Pearson ruefully, "remember the cyclone in 'The Wizard of Oz' with Dorothy and her little dog whirling upward, along with chickens, hives, and neighbors. While this might be delightful to watch on a movie or television screen, those who have been through a real tornado remember only the terror and destruction."

To Honor Ten Outstanding Youths

The Kentucky Jaycees and the 1968 Kentucky State Fair will applaud the Commonwealth's wonderful young people by honoring ten especially outstanding youths.

The State Fair will be held August 15-24 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville.

Any Kentucky adult will be able to nominate a young person he thinks outstanding enough to deserve statewide recognition. Nominations will be considered and the ten chosen by a committee of responsible Kentuckians. Jaycees chapters across the state are distributing pamphlets describing the program to organizations or adults who work with or might know about young people.

Nomination blanks are available by writing "Accent on Youth," Kentucky State Fair, P.O. Box 21179, Louisville, Kentucky 40221. The final nominations must be received at that address no later than June 18 for the young person to be eligible.

A youth might be nominated because he or she has shown unusual academic ability, athletic ability, has demonstrated special talent in some area like music or science, has made some outstanding contribution to a community organization or other people, has performed an heroic act, or any other reason.

Community Colleges

Frankfort--The University of Kentucky community college system offers students three kinds of opportunities, according to the biennial report of the President of the University.

The opportunities are: (1) to take college courses at home, (2) to take college courses that can be transferred to U.K. or other four-year institutions; (3) to prepare for immediate employment in a technical or semi-technical job, and (4) to attend evening classes and cultural events.
