

2000th Telephone Installed In Carlisle

Another big step in Kentucky's communications progress was made in September when South Central Bell Telephone Company installed its 800,000th telephone in the state.

C. A. Harris, local manager of the company, said that his office had been officially notified of the event today by C. Hunter Green, the utility's vice president for Kentucky.

To reach the milestone which occurred during the last ten days of the month, South Central Bell added telephones during the first eight months of the year at the average rate of 176 telephones a day.

Locally the number of telephones has increased from 1057 phones on September 30, 1963, to 2000 at the end of August this year. The 2000th phone was installed for Bob McCarty, High Street, an employee of Fox Construct-

SECURITY LIGHTS

NITE LIFE

Here's a bright idea... stretch a few more hours into your busy days. You can do this and much more when you have outdoor lighting controlled by an electric photo cell. It automatically turns itself on at dusk, off at dawn. Your yard, barn and out buildings can all be well lighted so you can still get things done... even after the sun sets.

Well-placed outdoor lighting is an important safety feature, too. Because you can see, even on the darkest night, there is less chance of injury by a slip or fall.

It means greater security, too. A well lighted area discourages unwanted prowlers, both the two- and four-legged varieties. Animals, birds and equipment are thus protected... automatically... from dusk to dawn.

The cost? Only a few pennies a day. Ask us for complete information. We'll be glad to help you select the best locations for each light so you can get greater benefit from low-cost rural electric power.

Our members can get one month of FREE SERVICE per installation for Security Lights installed during October and November. HURRY!

Mr. Harris pointed out that the growth rate for the state during the past five years is unprecedented in the country's history. At the end of September 1963, there were 607,703 South Central Bell (then Southern Bell) telephones serving the Commonwealth, some 200,000 less than now in service.

Absentee Ballot Deadline Near

FRANKFORT--The most important date in Kentucky from a suffrage viewpoint between now and presidential election day, probably is Thursday, Oct. 17, the deadline, of last day, for making application for an absentee ballot.

Applications for these ballots on forms provided by the County Clerk may be obtained and voted by those who will be away from their home county on election day, Nov. 5. The applications must be notarized.

Marked with one's preference of candidates, the ballot itself also must be notarized and returned by mail to the County Clerk so he will receive it before the polls close at 6 p.m., local time, on election day.

Incumbents vying for president and vice president, Kentuckians this year will vote for one United States Senator, seven U. S. Congressmen, one judge of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, three Circuit Court Judges, four Commonwealth's Attorneys, and District Education members in three independent school districts.

There are four presidential tickets, with the first person named the candidate for President, and the second the candidate for Vice-President, as follows:

Republican-Richard M. Nixon, New York, and Spiro T. Agnew, Annapolis, Md.; Democrat-Hubert H. Humphrey, Waverly, Minn., and Edmund S. Muskie, Waterville, Maine; American Party-George C. Wallace, Montgomery, Ala.; and Marvin Griffin, Hallsbridge, Ga., who acted as a stand-in and was expected to be replaced on the Wallace ticket by another candidate for vice president, Socialist Workers Party, Fred Hartman, New York, N. Y., and Paul Boutelle, Newark, N. J.

The U. S. Senate Contest for the seat now held by Republican Thurston B. Morton, who decided not to run again. The three candidates are: Republican, Marsha W. Cook, Jefferson County; Democrat, Katherine Feder, Highlands; and Independent, Duane F. Olson, Louisville, whose symbol is a flaming torch.

In his instructions to County Clerks in their respective counties, Secretary of State Elmer Boyley also certifies the names of candidates for the seven congressional seats to be filled in November. All incumbents are candidates for reelection. By districts, the candidates are:

First District-Frank A. Stubbfield, Murray, Democrat incumbent, is unopposed.

Second District-Republican, Robert D. Simmons, Bowling Green; and Democrat, William H. Satcher, Bowling Green, incumbent.

Third District-Republican, William O. Cowger, Louisville, incumbent; and Democrat, Tom Day, Louisville.

Fourth District-Republican, M. G. "Gene" Sawyer, Jefferson, incumbent; and Democrat, Gus Sheehan, Jr., Covington.

Fifth District-Republican, Dr. Tim Lee Carter, Tompkinsville, incumbent; Democrat, Thomas Jefferson Roberts, Middletown; and American Anti-Communist Party, Charles P. Peace, Corbin.

Sixth District-Republican, Russell G. Mobley, Lexington; Democrat, John G. Wynn, Nicholasville, incumbent; Independent, J. Donald Graham, Berea.

Seventh District-Republican, James P. "Jim" Nickell, Ashland; and Democrat, Carl O. Perkins, Hindman, incumbent.

The seat on the Court of Appeals to be filled is that of the Fifth Appellate District, now represented by Judge Spiro N. Williams, Jr., Frankfort.

The members of both the Republican and Democrat Parties for this post are: Republican, James H. McCallister, Jr., Louisville; and Democrat, Democrat Boyce C. Clayton, Benton.

Circuit Court Judge candidates for unexpired terms in three districts are: 13th District, Deibert Lakin, Lancaster, nominee of both Republican and Democrat parties; 26th District, Republican Lawrence S. Hall, Somerset; 30th District, J. Douglas Graham, Campbell, nominee of both Republican and Democratic parties.

National County Agents Open Meet Oct. 13

County agents from the 50 states of the Union get a good look at Kentucky, the fabled land of agriculture, when the National Association of County Agricultural Agents opens its annual convention in Louisville Sunday, Oct. 13.

Earl Noffelinger, Nicholas County Extension Agent will be in charge of the Educational exhibits at the Convention Center. Mr. Noffelinger will leave for Louisville on Friday.

More than 3,000 agents and their families are expected at the five-day session at Convention Center in downtown Louisville.

Talks by national agriculture leaders, industry and civic persons, honors for agents, discussion sessions on national farm topics, tours of Louisville and Central Kentucky, and many other events are on the calendar.

The groups take Wednesday, Oct. 16 off for a bus tour of the Blue Grass region around Lexington, with a lunch at the Keeneland Race Course in the heart of the race horse country.

Top speakers throughout the week include Dr. Clarence Crouch, vice president of the University of Kentucky; Congressman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi; Dr. Lloyd Davis, Washington, Federal Extension Service administrator; Dr. Duke McCall of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville; Robert Sampson, Chicago management consultant, and B. H. Starnes, Chicago, industrial firm official.

Mayor Kenneth Schmied of Louisville and Gov. Louie B. Nunn are scheduled to give various times to welcome the delegates.

Special programs have been arranged for wives and children of the agents, the "old timers" in the agent association, and other special groups.

H. C. Brown, Louisville, for many years area agent in Jefferson County, is arrangements chairman. Faye Albers, Glasgow, president of the Kentucky County Agents' Association, is agent corps of the U. K. Cooperative Extension Service is working on various committees.

The first day (Sunday, Oct. 13) includes registration, a press dinner at the Kentucky Hotel, a vesper service and about business meeting. The Fayette County Homemakers Chorus, Lexington, is the featured entertainment.
