Deadline Nears For ASC Committee Election Vote

Farmers were reminded today that Tuesday, Sept. 17, is the last date for turning in a ballot in the election of community ASC committees.

Harvey Wagner, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, explained that ballots were mailed Sept. 8. Eligible voters of record; they must be returned to the county ASC office by mail or in person not later than Sept. 17.

Qualified voters in the election are all farmers who are eligible to take part in one or more of the farm programs which the committee administers. Lists of eligible voters in each community are available for public inspection in the county office.

Anyone who believes that he is eligible to vote but who has not received a ballot is urged to get in touch with the county ASC office immediately. Eligibility to vote is not restricted by reason of sex, race,

For each community where an election is being held, three regular members and two alternates will be elected. The chairman, vice chairman, and third regular member of the elected community ASC committee will serve as delegates to the county conventional where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the county ASC committee and where the committee's chairman and vice chairman will be elected.

Chairman Wagner urges farmers to be sure to sign the statement on the back of the outside envelope containing the plain envelope with the ballot for the community committee election. This statement is a certification that the ballot was mailed by the farmer personally without undue influence by any person. The ballot will not be counted unless the statement is signed.

Blue Jackets Lose 7-6; Meet Morgan Co. Friday

By Allen Waugh

The Nicholas County Bluejackets played an outstanding defensive football game but lost the heartbreaker by one point, 7-6, to the Fleming County Panthers last Friday night at Flemingsburg.

The Jackets won the coin toss and elected to receive the "pigskin". With the ball moving toward the goal line Fleming County John Terrell intercepted a Gary Crawford pass and the Panthers took the ball on the Nicholas County eight yard line, with first and goal to go. Halfback Danny Stephens moved the ball to the Nicholas four yard line. On the next play of the game Robert Ross carried the ball across the goal line for the score. Dale Emmons added the point after touchdown.

The Bluejackets took over the ball on their own 41 yard line. Bill Robinson carried the ball 61 yards for a touchdown, but the extra point failed, making the score 7-6.

The exciting action packed game was filled with fumbles and penalties.

Father's got the ball on their own 46 yard line. Gary Parker took a hand-off from the Fleming County quarterback and galloped 54 yards for the 1-0. But a fumble was thrown and the score nullified. At half time the score stood 6-0 in favor of the Nicholas County Panthers.

The Nicholas Players tried to make head coach Jack Mashek's debut a success but costly mistakes plagued the Nicholas offense.

The Jackets had the ball in Ferguson's territory late in the third quarter but a fumble on the 29 yard line halted the drive that started from the Nicholas 43.

In the fourth period of play the Bluejackets tried again to get another score but with 1:09 left in the game, Gary Parker intercepted a Nicholas pass and stopped the scoring threat.

Final score Fleming, 7; Nicholas 6.

This Friday night the Big Blue travels to Morgan County to try and break the ice in the win column. Many people agree this football team is one of the best. Why not find out for yourself and support the Bluejackets.

LABOR SAVER -- New portable steel curing frames that hold 1,000 pounds of burley tobacco can cut 50 percent of the hand labor from the housing of burley tobacco, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Kentucky Department of Agricultural Engineering.

Field Day To Show New Tobacco Curing Frames

LINCOLN -- New portable steel curing frames, developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the University of Kentucky and the University of Tennessee, will be demonstrated at a Tobacco Mechanization Field Day, September 17.

The special session, 10:30 a.m., Tuesday morning, at the B. J. Reynolds Farm on the southern edge of Lexington, will be open to the public.

The University of Kentucky Department of Agricultural Engineering will put the steel frames through their paces to demonstrate how one man can house burley tobacco by himself, from field to stacking in the barn, and reduce labor as much as 50 percent.

Lunches will be served to those watching the demonstration.

During this how-to-do-it session, steel frames filled with sticks of burley tobacco will be lifted in the field by fork lift on a wagon, brought to the barn, and stacked by one man unassisted.

According to Elmon F. Yoder, USDA engineer at the University of Kentucky, who developed the new system, it will enable a burley grower to house his own crop, without hiring extra help—a problem with farm labor in short supply.

He said that in 1967 field tests at the University of Kentucky showed that the portable curing frames "reduced crop loss as much as 200 pounds per acre."

In addition, Yoder reports the frames will make housing of tobacco easier and safer work for the grower and his family by putting an end to the old chore of climbing in the barn to hang tobacco sticks.

The steel frames are handled with conventional farm equipment, and will adapt to traditional or U-F-A-type barns. Fabricated by Thoro-Speed Corporation from USS galvanized steel sheets, the frames are 4 feet wide by 7 feet high, 12 feet long, height by 12 feet long, with roll extensions for overhanging 12 and 14 feet lengths. The frames will have an opportunity to handle and stack the portable tobacco frames for themselves in a "zero-to-zero" program.

Yoder's session at the field day, agricultural experts will discuss labor saving methods for harvesting and housing burley tobacco.

Good News For County

Rev. H. Dallas Suggs in cooperation with the American Bible Society, the Nicholas County Ministerial Association will be sponsoring the distribution of Good News For Modern Man. This is the most recent version of the New Testament written in today's English.

The plans are to distribute these books to each child during the week of Oct. 21-27. The belief of the Ministerial Association is that each child should have a copy of the Bible for his very own. This feeling is predicated by the fact that a child receives and takes care of those things which belong to him.

Members of the local civic and social clubs of Carlisle and Nicholas County are being asked to participate in this project to help defray the costs. Any interested person or company who wishes to help in a financial way, contact Mr. H. Dallas Suggs at Carlisle Baptist Church.

The local grocers have been contacted and they have agreed to help in this matter by presenting their customers a pamphlet promoting the reading of the scriptures and a sample of the Good News For Modern Man.

Ministerial Association Elects New Officers

At a recent meeting of the Nicholas County Ministerial Association the following officers were elected: President, Mr. H. Dallas Suggs; secretary, Mr. Norman Dunlap; and treasurer, Mr. Harold Rice.

The Ministerial Association is composed of those ministers in Carlisle and Nicholas County who desire membership. Two of the on-going programs of the association are challenging speakers for Nicholas County Hospital and Johnson-Mathers Nursing Home.
