Guaranteed Inflation

Survey after survey and poll after poll have shown that inflation ranks right at the top of a number of problems which are bothering the American people. For years, inflation has been eating away at the buying power of everyones income.

Most economists agree that the primary cause for the runaway inflation now plaguing us has been government spending over the past five or six years. The Nixon administration is now attempting to cure these financial ills and call a halt to the rapid erosion of the buying power of the dollar. Federal spending alone has been slashed by more than seven billion dollars.
