Labor Problems Beset Farmers Labor problems are one reason many smaller farmers are selling their farms and getting out of the business. "There's just no help," has been a local farm labor representative at the local state employment office.

Employment and other pertinent information. When a request for labor has been made by a potential employer, the representative will file a farm labor order. The order states the number of workers needed, the kind of work to be performed, hours of work and wage rates. The order authorizes the employer to begin recruitment of workers.

Example of the problem is the case of a representative of a local farm labor order. The order states the number of workers needed, the kind of work to be performed, hours of work and wage rates. The order authorizes the employer to begin recruitment of workers.
