

Feeding Habits of Fish Difficult to Study

A University of Kentucky professor of zoology says that feeding habits of fish are very difficult to study in a controlled way, therefore not very much is known about a pattern that may exist.

"If someone were to complete a successful scientific study of a particular game fish's preferences for food, I think there's little doubt he could make a lot of money," the zoologist remarks in a talk to the fishermen at the University of Kentucky.

Although the Kuckler has operated for the study of fish over the years, he still believes the best way to catch them is by getting the idea of their food habits and baiting accordingly.

"The fisherman has got to be in the mood to catch fish," the professor says. "He has to be in the mood to catch fish."

Field Day for Young Cattlemen June 28

A special summer field day for youngsters interested in breeding and showing beef cattle is set for June 28 at Elko Hill Farm near Paducah, Ky., says the Kentucky Junior Angus Association.

The program is being sponsored by the Kentucky Junior Association but all youngsters and adults interested in beef cattle are invited to attend. It begins at 10:00 a.m.

A highlight will be the selection of the two top Junior Angus showmen in the state. They will represent Kentucky at the 3rd Annual National Junior Angus Show, December 27-29, at Lexington.

The affair, beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at 5 p.m., will be designed to help boys and girls get the best job with their beef cattle. It will include a tour of the farm, a field day with the top Junior Angus Association will conduct their annual meeting and election of officers.

Nursing Home News

Clyde Allen was the U.S. Army who is home on leave from Germany. His grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Mitchell.

Mrs. Gertrude Hill has surely asked more questions than any other person in the home. She always gets the correct answer, for "Miss Gertrude" is the name of the school. She is 50 years old. She still takes a teachers magazine and gives everyone a big smile when the school is mentioned.

The entire home is sorry to hear about the serious illness of Mrs. Hammonds. Mrs. Hammonds was well known ball player in the younger days. The Father's Day favors were made by Mrs. Hammonds.

Mrs. Jerry Cameron's Scout Troop 4022 will be the first to visit the home. The residents of the home ask, "How does the home look from the front page of the Mercury. Congratulations to Mrs. Cameron."

We will let you know later whether Harvey Ellinger and Miss Smith to the "family man" of the home. Mr. Ellinger has one living child, grandchild, 63 grand-grandchildren and 12 great-grand-grandchildren. We have heard it said that Mr. "Winter" Smith would give anyone the most office back if he thought they needed it. We hope information on all the ways to announce the "family man" question. Mrs. and Mrs. S. S. Smith of Greenville, Ohio visited Mr. Smith's mother, Mrs. Ed Smith. They also visited

"For our dream house everything had to be the best," say the Bill Elliott's of Harrodsburg

"Naturally, that included electric heat!"

"I've learned that the lasting value of something you buy means more than cost," says Mr. Elliott. "And electric heat really gives us the most in comfort, convenience and safe operation. No more worries about maintenance, repairs and fuel storage either."

"When I remember all my mother's housework," adds Mrs. Elliott, "I'm amazed at how little I have to do. Electric heat doesn't seem to make any dirt at all. Before you buy, build or remodel get the facts on electric heat costs from our local office. Flameless electric heat won't burn a hole in your pocket!"
