Is This a Time For Hatred?

Is this a time for hatred? Dr. Nathan Hale, a professor at San Francisco State College, says it is—and he quotes the Bible in support of his position.

Dr. Hale, who was to have headed the "black studies" department at the college, announced that he would not be received—and said that "the time is not a time for hatred."

In Chicago, after a meeting was held on April 3 in one of the city's high schools, Negro students pointed out the words and undertone to attack white people through books, letters, and news or passing cars.

A Negro journalist who was an eyewitness reported that the outcome was a demonstration.

Many would like to question that there is some in our time who are building the fires of hatred, although with far too much reason to give one group of people against another.

It would be possible to take his attitude, the Golden Shield Award, the highest Girl Scout award, given to an individual who has aided the overall girl scout program in the past month.

He accepted the award from the Wide-area Road Girl Scout Council, one-half of the Commandant, Fifth Nevada District.

Lieutenant Charles R. Denham, Commanding Officer, Service Division 512 received on behalf of the local unit, the Girl Scout Distinguished Award given to the organization that has contributed most during the past year to development of Girl Scouting areas.

NEW STATE RESTAURANT

Restaurante for 105 tables, counter service for 45 and booth seating capacity for 65, all in air-conditioned surroundings.

There is a carry-out window for our drive-in eating, and vending machines offering snacks. Close-by is a patio equipped with thermos tables.

Cable called the complex an "interesting example of contemporary architecture" with a long ramp to the restaurant and a full house located below. A first-aid and life guard station, vending area and patio complete the lower level facilities.

An added feature to the full house is the installation of coin-operated automatic street lockers instead of old-style lockers for use by swimmers.

For convenience, state Park has ample accommodations for its and regular campers complete with electric service, real tennis and tennis courts.

Swimmers can sit near the beach, make camp at the water's edge and enjoy all the facilities of the exclusive beach camping area.
