

RESULTS OF FRIDAY'S GAME
Nicholas County - 0
Meigs County - 14

Reports Sales

The Lightwater Real Estate Agency reports the following sales: A house and lot in Liberty Springs last Friday. Sold by Mrs. Lyle Anderson. A house and lot in Indian Springs last Friday. Sold by Mrs. Lyle Anderson. A house and lot in Indian Springs last Friday. Sold by Mrs. Lyle Anderson.

Operating Loans
Help Young Farmers

Young farmers in Meigs County are getting help from the Federal Farm Administration. The agency has made a loan of $100,000 to the county to help young farmers get started in farming.

Dr. Kingsolver
To Attend Meet

Dr. Kingsolver will attend the annual meeting of the Meigs County Medical Association at the Meigs Hotel in Nicholas County on Friday.

New Clothing Center

The Meigs County Clothing Center has recently opened a clothing center at 114 West Main Street. The center will sell new and used clothing.

Opens Land Bank
Men Go To Louisville

Three officers of the Federal Land Bank Association of Mayville will represent that organization at the annual land bank shareholders conference to be held in Louisville on Sept. 12 and 13.

Caution! Saber-Tooth Tiger Crossing

All Kentucky's roads, including the mighty new super highways, possess an aura of mystery and magic. You sense it in the little swirl of secret excitement that knifes, no matter how casual you may appear, whenever you put the car in gear and head out onto a highway toward some distant goal. Somewhere ahead is the promise of adventure.

Part of this might be inherent in the road itself. You could be following a trail old beyond belief. There is the way knowing what first urged prehistoric man to go lumbering in a certain direction far back in the abyss of the past. Nor do we know what manner of creature first broke the trail, following the line of least resistance, but still heading in a definite direction. Perhaps it was a mammoth seeking salt, or a dinosaur of the shaggy build in quest of richer pastures.

Whatever it was, others came behind with steady persistence by swift herds, herds with hoofs and horns, huge slow movers and sometimes little quick things. And when there were travelers coming the other way, straight and onward there were more and more animals until a certain day, the different direction was taken. The first they carried was the wilderbeest.

That led the way, this creature of the past. They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

Caution! Saber-Tooth Tiger Crossing

All Kentucky's roads, including the mighty new super highways, possess an aura of mystery and magic. You sense it in the little swirl of secret excitement that knifes, no matter how casual you may appear, whenever you put the car in gear and head out onto a highway toward some distant goal. Somewhere ahead is the promise of adventure.

Part of this might be inherent in the road itself. You could be following a trail old beyond belief. There is the way knowing what first urged prehistoric man to go lumbering in a certain direction far back in the abyss of the past. Nor do we know what manner of creature first broke the trail, following the line of least resistance, but still heading in a definite direction. Perhaps it was a mammoth seeking salt, or a dinosaur of the shaggy build in quest of richer pastures.

Whatever it was, others came behind with steady persistence by swift herds, herds with hoofs and horns, huge slow movers and sometimes little quick things. And when there were travelers coming the other way, straight and onward there were more and more animals until a certain day, the different direction was taken. The first they carried was the wilderbeest.

That led the way, this creature of the past. They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

Caution! Saber-Tooth Tiger Crossing

All Kentucky's roads, including the mighty new super highways, possess an aura of mystery and magic. You sense it in the little swirl of secret excitement that knifes, no matter how casual you may appear, whenever you put the car in gear and head out onto a highway toward some distant goal. Somewhere ahead is the promise of adventure.

Part of this might be inherent in the road itself. You could be following a trail old beyond belief. There is the way knowing what first urged prehistoric man to go lumbering in a certain direction far back in the abyss of the past. Nor do we know what manner of creature first broke the trail, following the line of least resistance, but still heading in a definite direction. Perhaps it was a mammoth seeking salt, or a dinosaur of the shaggy build in quest of richer pastures.

Whatever it was, others came behind with steady persistence by swift herds, herds with hoofs and horns, huge slow movers and sometimes little quick things. And when there were travelers coming the other way, straight and onward there were more and more animals until a certain day, the different direction was taken. The first they carried was the wilderbeest.

That led the way, this creature of the past. They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

They moved faster and faster until they had reached the top of the hill. There they turned to the right. It was the same old story, the same old story, the same old story.

COMMISSIONER FLORENCE GOSS points out remarkable progress in Kentucky's newly-completed interstate highway system. Now, the most immediate concern of the Highway Department, Goss says, will be focused on completion of the Nunn Administration's 247.3 mile parkway system and construction and improvement of the local "farm to market, people to people" roads.

Kentucky's Retail Trade
Establishments Grossed
$3,982.5 Million in '37

Wholesale and retail trade establishments in Kentucky reported a total gross of $3,982,500,000 in 1937, according to the 1938 Census of Wholesale and Retail Trade. This represents an increase of 10.5 percent over the total of $3,598,000,000 reported in 1936.

The increase in trade was due to a number of factors, including a general improvement in the economy and a decline in unemployment. The retail trade showed a particularly strong increase, rising by 12.5 percent in 1937.

The wholesale trade also showed a significant increase, rising by 8.5 percent in 1937. This was due to a number of factors, including a decline in the price of raw materials and a general improvement in the economy.

The total trade in Kentucky in 1937 was 10.5 percent higher than in 1936. This was due to a number of factors, including a general improvement in the economy and a decline in unemployment.

The increase in trade was due to a number of factors, including a general improvement in the economy and a decline in unemployment. The retail trade showed a particularly strong increase, rising by 12.5 percent in 1937.

The wholesale trade also showed a significant increase, rising by 8.5 percent in 1937. This was due to a number of factors, including a decline in the price of raw materials and a general improvement in the economy.

The total trade in Kentucky in 1937 was 10.5 percent higher than in 1936. This was due to a number of factors, including a general improvement in the economy and a decline in unemployment.

The increase in trade was due to a number of factors, including a general improvement in the economy and a decline in unemployment. The retail trade showed a particularly strong increase, rising by 12.5 percent in 1937.

The wholesale trade also showed a significant increase, rising by 8.5 percent in 1937. This was due to a number of factors, including a decline in the price of raw materials and a general improvement in the economy.

NEAL'S KEY SQUARE DEAL GROCERY FOOD STORES. Fresh, Whole. EDWARDS SAUSAGE 2 lbs. $1.49. FISCHERS QUIK CUT HAM .89¢. SPARE RIBS .69¢. SCOTT TOWELS jumbo each 29¢, 100 egg label 29¢, MAISONNAISE 4c. 49¢. 409 HOUSEHOLD 22 oz. 89¢. CLEANER 89¢. CHICKEN OF THE SEA 2/69¢. TUNA 2/69¢. DEL MONTE 46 oz. 2/67¢. TOMATO JUICE DEL MONTE #103 2/49¢. FRUIT COCKTAIL 2/49¢. WISBONE 8 oz. 33¢. 1,000 Island 33¢. HARBSCO your choice Appetizers 4/51. FAMLY SCOTT 4oz. 2oz. Toilet Tissue 12/51. Indiana Potatoes 20 - 79¢. Head Lettuce Hand 2 - 35¢. 49¢.