

The "Unhappy" Childhood

Editor Bill Thompson of the News-Courier has written an item that he thought worth printing. He writes, "I don't know who wrote it, and neither do we, but we agree it describes a father's pretty much the way it was with those who share your school days with us."

"I didn't have a very happy childhood. But nobody worried very much about it. I was too busy, I guess—cutting lawns, shoveling snow, running errands, delivering groceries for 10 cents a load, selling news papers, doing housework, going to school. I missed my grades, too. I know, I'd have had the idea strapping me."

No one concerned himself about my amusements. What fun was had, we made. But if we did any damage like breaking a window in a ball game—we paid for it by work.

No one supposed people understood me; but if I had said so, my mother would have asked, "What's wrong with you? You never gave a thought to my 'problems.' They were mine, weren't they?"

MERCURY VAPOURS

By Warren K. Fisher

If I thought I'd been taken last week by a "Tom Sawyer" ... I wish I was. I had a very happy week this past weekend when I was in Lexington, Ky., and found out the plane was just one of several history trees.

The Lexington airport, but was unable to get to the control tower. Some other much brighter person called the tower, and I was able to find out the plane was just one of several history trees.

Now I am just plumb dumped, and I'm sure you'll understand me saying, "Hate makes waste."

Sunday evening as twilight was just approaching darkness, a large jet was circling Lake Carlisle, much to the consternation of several anglers who were under the plane as the pilot, just righting or was the only trouble looking for a place to land, tried to call to
