A STORM OF SMUT

NEW YORK, N.Y.---Here in the nation's largest city to address the emergency leadership conference sponsored by The Center of American Living Inc., I had the privilege of sharing the platform with the Rev. Morton A. Hill, S.J., a battler for decency who deserves the thanks of all respectable citizens.

Father Hill is one of the three members of the presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography who dissented from the majority findings. The views of Father Hill and his two colleagues, who filed a minority report, should be widely known. In order to help achieve this important goal, I am devoting this column to excerpts from Father Hill's speech. The following are among his most telling comments to the leadership conference organized by Lady Natalie Douglas-Hamilton, who leads The Center of American Living:

"There's a wild storm of smut buffeting our country today. It's drowning out good media; it's chocking our culture; it's corrupting our morals.

"The purveyors of filth are more brazen than ever. Smut peddlers, confident that highly paid legal counsel will see them through anything, are transporting their trash across State lines, are importing it, are sending it through the mails. Commercial filiam are projecting the anti-hero image to our young people. He's an unloving non-achiever, non-creator, a violent, oversexed or perverted drug user. Underground newspapers--there are some 200 of them in the country--are serving up a potpourri of sex, drugs and rebellion.

"And then a presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, after two years and $2 million of your tax money, comes up and says in effect, 'Leave it there. It's all revved up. Let it take off. Let's repeal all obscenity laws.' This is what the know-it-all the Danish solution and it is what 12 Americans on the Commission voted for.

"Although the President rejected the majority report and the Senate rejected and censured it, we have not seen the last of the publicity it will get. It is possible that the big lie known has not even begun.

"The Commission did not do its job. It was mandated by Congress to make recommendations that would effectively and constitutionally regulate the traffic in obscenity and pornography. Obviously, the Commission did not carry out this mandate.

"The Commission began in slant and bias to prove a preconceived theory, and it never changed or altered course.

"The New York State Investigation Commission presented evidence (in a study of its own) that organized crime is involved in the smut industry; it presented overwhelming evidence. It named reputed members of crime families. It concluded, in fact, that the smut industry is infested with racketeers. But the Presidential Commission could find 'no concrete evidence'."

The address made by Father Hill deserves to be publicized nationwide. Indeed public officials and community leaders need to familiarize themselves with the entire Hill-Link Keating minority report which makes clear the menace posed by the smut peddlers.

With the facts developed by Father Hill and other dissenters, there is a foundation for an organized, continuous and reasoned community voice against the traffic in pornography--a traffic in which syndicate crime plays a key role.

Father Hill's organization, Mcrality In Media Inc., 1256 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y., 10028, can provide concerned citizens with whatever information they need to combat smut peddlers in their communities.

Time For Winter

Now is the time for winter: for coals in fireplaces and lamplight to shine out early on gloomy afternoons, for farmhouses to be close and warm. On the farm all the year's most exacting and critical work has been performed--corn gathered, and hay and fodder stacked away in the barn; apples picked and holed up in the cellar; crocks of kraut and pickled beans put down in the smokehouse; potatoes, cabbage, and turnips layered between earth and straw in a corner of the garden.

Now is the time when provident country people, in a deep psychological need for great after toil, long for the knows to come so they can know the comfort of their preparation for winter and enjoy the fruits of their labor.

Winter is the low watermark in the incessant flow of seasons and, like farmers, all other living things, in some particular way, prepare for it. Birds fly South, some animals hibernate, and some, after the fashion of intelligent and industrious housewives, store up food. The small seeks out a recess in basement walls, seals the door of its shell with lime and slime, and lies inert through the cold winter months. Full-grown queen hornets, wasps, and bumblebees sleep half-frozen in mossy crevices of old trees, and frogs snuggle into holes in streambanks and sink into winter torpor. Not much of a way of living, but a way of staying alive.

In preparation for winter, most trees shed their leaves and protect their buds with varnished and waterproofed scales. Some plants condense themselves into tubers, bulbs, and other less vulnerable forms. In the same way, the shedding of leaves or retreating to root is like the pulling in of outposts by an army when hard pressed by the enemy. A bulb, or a bud, or a root is but a shoot in safer quarters.

If winter is a time of resting and recuperation, it is also a time of severest elimination. Only those things that prepare for its austerity survive. In the world of the outdoors, at least, the improvident and the weakling perish.

The rest and sleep of winter are the necessary conditions for another bright and vigorous spring. In a deeper way, however, this elimination is also an important and significant factor. For, according to scientists, it has been through this sifting and pruning and winnowing of the winters of geologic time that here has been spring after spring of progressive evolution.

A MAJESTIC LADY

Ninety years ago a baby was born to Katherine and Coleman. No bright lights burned to mark the occasion but all who knew her would soon know that that baby would become a great lady. Early in the little girl's childhood, Katherine was called away and the little girl became an adult who must care for a young brother. When the young lady was chosen by her future husband and the marriage followed, there started a succession of young people who needed her. She had no time for her own luxury but all the time necessary to care for her own eight, plus others who had need because their mothers were not great ladies and had not sufficient time to care for their own--one even going so far as to abandon her infant. She taught them--to hold their heads high but not so high they could overlook an injustice.

When the Lord answered her plea and took her heart, the frail form was laid beside her husband of forty years. After thirty years of separation, what happiness to be reunited. One son and one daughter have already welcomed her. The other six children, plus grandchildren, great-grandchildren, in-laws and friends are sad and lowly, grieve but not without hope. They know they will sooner or later see and recognize the marvelous, majestic, great lady.--Family of Hattie Smoot

IN LOVING MEMORY

No greater gift was ever given anyone than the day you were given to me, my son. Memories of your childhood I treasure each hour for you brightened our home like a beautiful flower.

You were obedient, cheerful and kind to me, the way any mother wants a son to be. I loved you so much but God loved you best, for you were so young when he called you to rest.

"God giveth and God taketh away." Only He knows my sadness each day. I know it's His will that I should go on until He calls me to The Great Beyond.

Now that we no longer see your face, I know that Heaven is a sweeter place, Sweeter because that you are there, though clouds on earth seem everywhere.

There's one consolation as days go by, sweet memories of you will never die. There's time when tears cannot smother, as you are sadly missed by your living Mother.--The family of Sammie Lemons Jr. 12-17-1tpd.
