legend of the three trees & the Christ-Child: Legends abound about the origin of the Christmas tree.

Another legend concerns St. Boniface in the 8th century. On Christmas Eve, while the famous Man of God was heaving down the sacred oak that had been the object of idolatrous worship.

St. Boniface turned to the pagans and said, "This little tree, a young child of the forest, shall be your holy tree. It is the wood of peace, for your homes are built of it."

To honor the newborn King, the olive gave its fruit and the palm its dates as an offering, but the pine tree, forlorn, had nothing to give.
