

Nursing Home News

By Virginia S. Donoran

The Methodist Men met at the home Sunday, Dec. 20. Alvaro White of the Western Chapel, C.M.U. Church was the pastor of the church, led the prayer.

Christmas carols and old hymns were sung. James Low of the Carlisle United Methodist Church read the Christmas story. These were two aspects of the church, led the prayer.

The Christmas favors were made by the Carlisle Baptist Church, Girl Scouts and the Future Homemakers. It seems that the spirit came around at Christmas time in the eighteen hundreds too. For Mrs. Marie A. Guanco 86, Dec. 25, Joe Burden 81, Dec. 20. By the way, Joe got to go home and eat Christmas dinner.

At this writing Mrs. Maggie Hammonds and Clay Herrin are in the Nicholas County Hospital. It is nice to have Mrs. Stella Watkins, Mrs. Mary Lizette Clay and Harvey Ellison and Walter Stone back from the hospital.

Dec. 17 the Nicholas County and Carlisle Brownies and Girl Scouts met at the home and sang Christmas carols. There were about 100 Brownies and Scouts and 10 leaders present.

lord Gillipie, Cassidy Methodist, was the speaker. (Anna Mae and Isabel should be kind of him.) Mr. and Mrs. Julia McKee sang a duet. Mr. and Mrs. Frazz Holler of Headquarters Church played the piano. After the service each resident was given a present, "Traying Hands."

The Dorseyville Center went white to the home and Mary Clay Bloom delivered them. They will come in many packages of good homemade candy, etc. was played on the tables in the dining room. The doors will just have to accept thanks from the Nursing Home News! (I don't know who did it.)

The members of the "Spot and Chew Club" are: Harvey Ellison, Stanley Dweily, Harvey Stephens, John Smithson and Dee Briggs. Some of you tobacco growers might throw a few twists their way now and then. George Harro's brother, who is a barber in Paris, came over and cut George's hair. His brother-in-law, Bill Hartley of Lexington also visited him recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Judy of Mt. Sterling visited Earl Smithers, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Smithers and daughter of Starburg came too. Tony in his grandsons.

Mrs. Lilla Ockerman and Mrs. Ann Hughes zoomed together for over three years and now they are back together again. The expressions on their faces are different. (All the better.) Mrs. Walter Shrew's friend, Miss Charlotte Sharp, from Millersburg came over and brought her a beautiful bracelet.

Sterling Vice is a new patient. The "Loyal Woman's" Class of the Carlisle Christian Church made beautiful bright red bibs and lap robes for the patients. These were the results of much time, handwork and love. Really, when you see these people dressed in red you just couldn't keep from believing in Santa Claus.

Some of the Eastern Star members shipped around with nice boxes of dusting powder; the packages didn't say who they were from, but one of Santa's helpers let the secret out. On Dec. 18 when the chorus sang we were real proud of Sylvia Garrett, Thursday night, Dec. 18, Herman Cowers dressed in his "old and tuck" family. It was a job back supper, everything from "soup to nuts" laid at the Carlisle Christian Church.

one present received a present, for the name of the oldest present, but the youngest was Robert Kennedy, 25 days. "Tony" kept a watchful eye on that great grandson.
