Additional pictures showing the progress his crew has made are to be found on page six. Besides the tank construction vocation, Ernie has one avocation, he likes to fish, and not too long ago he hooked up with several large ones at Lake Cumberland. Council Appoints Chanslor New City Clerk-Treasurer

John Robert Chanslor was appointed and sworn-in as City Clerk-Treasurer Tuesday night, as Council ended a session which included five adjourned meetings and numerous work meetings which started Jan. 5.

He has been helping temporarily at the City office since Jan. 14, as Council agreed to pay him $175 for January and $350 per month starting Feb. 1. He will work from 9 to 5 Monday thru Friday, and 8-1 on Saturday.

Chanslor was selected from 24 applicants who were considered by Council members in meetings over the weekend. He agreed to fulfill the duties which Council passed Tuesday night regarding his position (these are outlined elsewhere in this week's newspaper).

Lester Snapp was hired to fill the Water Works assistant's position at a salary of $350 per month. Thirteen persons were considered for this position.

Margarer Wade was hired at Saturday's meeting as assistant at the City office at a salary of $65 per week for 35 hours a week.

Also on Saturday, Council voted to pay Orville Gaunce, City policeman, for sick days. Additionally, the Street Committee was asked to check on street signs that might need replacing.

At Thursday night's meeting, Councilman Jane Ellen Booth strongly suggested that a City Manager be hired to oversee all facets of the City business.

She stated that none of the Councilmen or the Mayor are able to provide full-time effort to City problems. And, therefore, the services of such a professional man would be a great benefit in finding ways to save money and in looking to future growth.

Since the problems relative to the gas estimate for the next five years and the gas losses for the past year had immediate priority, the subject was discontinued for the present.

Wayne Shumate, president of Blue Grass Industries, appeared before Council to discuss the gas estimate report since this report must be turned in before gas will be made available to the City in 1970. BGI uses about 50% of the gas purchased by the City.

After much discussion on the estimate report, it was decided to call the Columbia Gas Company representative to assist in filling out the report. Brooks Henson and the representative completed the report Friday afternoon.

Henson stated the gas loss for 1969 was 4.4% for $4,620 of the $105,000 worth purchased by the City). A 2% loss is normal.

Henson was given permission Saturday to purchase a gas sniffer for approximately $200 to aid in locating the gas leaks. He was also asked to check the cost of renting other equipment which would be able to detect the leaks more efficiently.

Charles Watkins, representing the First National Bank, appeared before Council Thursday to offer the bank's cooperation during the Clerk's transition period.

In addition, he announced that the bank is purchasing a new computer which at a later date will be available 50 per cent of the time to outside customers for accounting, billing and receiving monies. The bank would make use of this service for the gas and water billing and collecting. The computer will cost the bank approximately $600,000, he said.

It was stated that no more salt can be purchased by the city because the barges are frozen and none can be transported. Therefore, salt can be used only as long as the city's present supply lasts.

The approximately 14 hour Council session was finally adjourned which included meetings on Jan. 5, 12, 15, 17, and 20. The meetings did not include the many more hours donated by Council members behind the scenes. All in all, Carlisle's new Council has been very busy in the first month of its two-year term.
