Minimum Wage Provisions Of Fair Labor Act To Change February 1

The Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended in 1966, provides different minimum wage standards for employment, effective Feb. 1, 1970, according to a reminder today from the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division.

Employers are reminded that employees in employment brought under the law by the 1966 amendments will be entitled to not less than $1.45 an hour effective Feb. 1. The rate for these workers is currently at least $1.20 an hour.

In its reminder, the Labor Department pointed out that employees covered under the Act prior to the 1966 amendments will continue to receive at least a minimum of $1.60 an hour. Overtime pay of one and one-half times the employees' regular rate of pay for hours in excess of 40 in a work-week will remain in effect, unless specifically exempt.

Covered farm workers under the Act will continue to receive at least $1.20 an hour. There is no overtime provision for farm workers.

An employer, having employees subject to the minimum wage provisions of the Act, may not discriminate in any other employment.
