Mrs. Elbert Manbeck of Jewett, Ohio visited Mrs. Lydia Barton.

The weekly worship was conducted Monday afternoon by Rev. Harold Rice, pastor of the Carlisle Christian Church. Before coming, Bro. Rice prepared a recording. Each patient whose hearing was not too badly impaired could hear from their rooms. The 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians was read. As you know this is the love chapter. Well known hymns were sung and instrumental music played. Also quartets sang.

It was nice to read the book, "The Changes Eighty Years Have Made," loaned by Landen Stewart. John A. Lewis writes the book of not only his personal life, but gives a description of the social, political and religious elements of his society. The book is enlightening and should be read by many Kentuckians, especially those of Lewis, Montogmery, Mason and Rowan counties.

Mrs. Eunice Harper of South Shore visited her mother, Mrs. Carrie Mitchell. Mrs. Harper's friend, Mrs. Hattie Terrill visited Mrs. Mitchell also.

Mrs. Ruth Leer of Frankfort visited her stepmother, Mrs. Lyda Barton.

George Wilcox of Dover visited his sister, Mrs. Bertha Schoenstgel and "Miss" Bertha enjoyed a nice drive in the country.

Wonder what today's teenagers will be able to tell their children they had to do without.

Husband. Who was that woman you were talking to on the porch for the past hour?

Wife; Oh, that was Mrs. Harrison. She didn't have time to come in.

Herman Conyers has been visiting again. Sunday he ate dinner with his granddaughter, Mrs. William Mathes and family. That evening he attended the daily Vacation Bible School at Blue Licks Church. He enjoyed seeing his little great-granddaughter, Whitney, take part in the final exercises.

Saltwell - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - By Mrs. Fred Hollar
