Kay's Kitchen

It's strawberry time again. My first thought is of Strawberry Shortcake. It is the one dessert I could eat everyday during the season. And when the season is over I always feel it was only too short and I never did really get enough strawberries. My recipe for shortbread comes from England, and may not appeal to you at all, but at least try it.

SHORTBREAD

2 cups all purpose flour
2 tablespoons powdered sugar (heaping)
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 1/2 sticks of butter or margarine

Sift dry ingredients into bowl and work in the butter with your fingers until it is like course cornmeal. Smooth out on a greased baking sheet until about 1/4 inch thick. Straighten edges by gently pressing with a spatula, smoothing top with open hand. Prick all over with fork. Bake at 250 degrees or 275 degrees about 30 minutes.

Cut into squares while still hot. Allow to cool before removing from baking sheet with spatula.

While shortbread cools, wash and hull strawberries and dry on absorbent paper. Always wash berries first then cap. This helps to keep them from getting water logged. When berries are dry put into crystal bowl and sprinkle with sugar to taste.

When ready to serve place shortbread squares in bottom of serving dish (you will need a deep one). Cover with berries, another square of shortbread and more strawberries. Serve with rich, thick cream, and to make it extra special with a spoon of whipped cream and a perfect strawberry. In spite of the cream the shortbread will be crisp to the last bite.

This shortbread may be used with other fruit.

STRAWBERRY PIE

Make and bake a pastry shell using 2 cups all purpose flour--measure after sifting; 1/2 cup butter flavored Wesson Oil; dash of salt; 1/4 cup sweet milk.

Pour all liquid in middle of flour. Mix well, lift out on to wax paper; flaten out with hands, cover with another piece of wax paper and roll not too thin. Remove top piece of paper, place pie pan over pastry and invert, removing second piece of paper. Bake at 425 degrees until done.

Fill baked shell with fresh strawberries. Pour topping over berries.

TOPPING

2 heaping tablespoons corn starch
2 heaping tablespoons strawberry jello
1 cup water
1 cup sugar

Combine all ingredients and cook until thick. Cool before pouring over berries. Serve topped with whipped cream.

STRAWBERRY PIE

A baked 9 inch pie shell
1 cup sugar
1 quart fresh whole strawberries
1/3 cup water
2 egg whites

Line pastry shell with strawberries. Combine sugar and water in small saucepan and cook to 420 degrees on a candy thermometer, or soft ball stage. Beat egg whites until they cling to sides of the bowl and begin to stiffen. Pour the hot syrup very slowly in a thin steady stream over the egg whites, beating constantly.

Cover the berries with the meringue, sealing well to sides of the crust. Place just a minute or two under broiler until lightly browned.

STRAWBERRIES ROMANOFF

1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
6 tablespoons Triple Sec
2 quarts halved and sweetened strawberries

Lightly whip the ice cream and fold in the whipped cream. Fold in Triple Sec. Pour over the chilled, sugared strawberries in a large crystal bowl. Serves about 12. (from "Kentucky Cooking New And Old")

Nursing Home News

By Virginia Smith Donovan

Today is mine, a gift from God, New hours, new ways, new everything... a time in which no foot has trod, A time when hopes and prayers take wing.

Phillip Otte, from Lexington, came to see his Uncle Landen Stewart Sunday. They took a ride and went down to Crayson.

Mr. and Mrs. Cray Gaunce of Camden, N.Jersey, visited Mrs. Cora Gaunce and their brother-in-law, Joe Burden.

Stanley Dwelley, youngest member of the home, has left the home and is now living in his trailer.

It wasn't Rev. John Daniel's fault that the weekly worship service wasn't conducted. He came prepared to talk to the folks but the intercom wasn't working. That would be even his last time to talk to them, for he is leaving Carlisle and will further his education.

J.P. Barbee did a bit of entertaining last week. His son Roy of Washington (Ky.), came and brought a friend with him. Wilmore Barbee and his son-in-law, Melvin Mitchell of West Union, Ohio, and Otho Barbee of Cincinnati came too.

It's nice that sisters-in-law can be together and be happy. Mrs. Pearl Cleaver Craig and Mrs. Grace Cleaver are rooming together.

Roger and Mary Sledd of Lexington made their usual weekly visit to see Mary's father, Joe Burden. They brought Mr. Joe a huge pot of white chrysanthemums. Cray and Dot Gaunce brought him pretty pink and white carnations.

Wesley Taylor of Dayton, Ohio recently visited Joe Burden and Mrs. Mattie Asbury.

Have you heard the news? Uncle Tom Jackson has been promoted. He's now eating in the dinning room.

Clara Ruth Craig recently attended a baby shower at Paris. We hope this won't give Clara

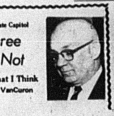
From the State Capitol

Agree Or Not

I Say What I Think by S. C. VanCuron



FRANKFORT--Finance Commissioner Albert Christen isn't buying the idea that the next governor will have to increase taxes to provide state services at comparative levels with today's economy.

There have been some conservative estimates floating around here, Christen says, that the state will need $252 million in new revenue in 1972.

"I say we ought to be doing something to keep from increasing taxes," Christen says. "The only time you can soften the blow of taxes is now...before the legislature meets in 1972. That's what we're doing right now."

He explains this by saying the primary project the Department of Finance wants to promote and lend assistance to is:

1. Reject the philosophy that it is necessary to raise or find new tax revenues to meet the needs of the people on the state level.

2. To assist in improving the economy of the state.

3. Reduce waste, duplication and unnecessary spending in all agencies.

Christen, a tough taskmaster where spending is concerned and still oriented to the private enterprise concept of "cutting the cloth to fit the pattern," believes strongly in a continuation budget--a budget that embraces normal growth in the economy. He shakes his head in puzzlement about the philosophy of spending for things and services many persons want, and then hunting for the money to pay the bill.

"We must get away from this credit card theory," he says. "There is coming a time when the public has to pay." He even thinks there may come a time when the taxpayers will rebel.

He will be the first to admit that Kentucky's taxes aren't excessive and that they are lower than many other states. He thinks Kentucky has a good tax program.

Christen believes that more economies can be effected in state government through an ambitious program now under way to develop an informational system through coordination of the computer within the state.

He also believes the Spindletop Research study will reduce the state's telephone bill without cutting services.

As I walked into his office, he was just completing signing a bunch of "price purchase contracts." "Departments can order off of these at will," he said. "All the control we have (the Finance Department) is through quarterly allotments by the budget department."

These are contracts that specify certain prices for certain products, particularly for the state cafeterias and state Parks Department for food items. Other every day supplies fall under the same system.

Christen, in his two and a half years as finance commissioner says he has found out that four years is too short to get many changes made in state government procedures, "In the next year and a half, we ought to accomplish a lot more in effectively reorganizing outdated record systems," he said.

What has Gov. Loule B, Nunn's Task Force on Efficency and Economy accomplished? "A great deal," Christen says. About 40 percent of the recommendations have been put into effect. More will come in the remainder of Gov. Nunn's administration.

Christen said he realizes that not all of the recommendations were practical, but it was a move in the right direction for economy.

The average growth in the state's economy has been eight percent for the past two years, "but I don't know how long that will continue," Christen said.

This means an additional $31 million or more in the general fund each year without any increase in taxes.

If Christen had his way, department heads, the universities and the Education Department, would get more lectures on economy in preparing their budget requests.

In replying to the big increase the universities got in the upcoming biennium budget, Christen said debt retirement costs was what boosted this amount, However, he said, "They still seem to have plenty of money to buy computers and other expensive equipment."

The universities have been financing their debt service for the first two years on new buildings. Capitalizing means floating enough bonds above actual construction costs to pay the interest on all the bonds for the first two years. This meets bond payments until income starts from the buildings.

Christen says the building pace should be slowed.

If there were a lesson coming from Christen in the interview, it was: "Stop credit spending and institute economy in governmentoperation."

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

Isa. 26:4 Walk as children of light. —(Eph. 5:8)

When we have a need for security, we often reach out for something in our environment to give it to us. Yet true security is found within. It is found in our inner strength, our inner oneness with God. God's light is with us, so let us live by it.
