Biscuits
If you like your biscuits inches tall, but skip over these recipes. Like mine light and crisp. I'll give you two recipes—the results should be the same.
1 1/2 cups self rising flour, Mix in with fingers to crumbly stage 1/2 cup shortening. Add enough milk to make a dough easy to handle, about 3/4 cup. Lift out on floured bread boards, knead lightly, roll out 1/2 inch thick and cut. Bake at 425 degrees until brown, about 15 minutes. By using self rising flour, you may use either sweet milk or buttermilk.

Biscuits
2 1/2 cups all purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1/2 cup shortening, 3/4 cup or more buttermilk. You may use sweet milk by omitting soda. Follow directions above.
You may make up either of these recipes, up to as much as you need—the recipe for 2 or 3 persons—add enough milk for dough and proceed.

Summer. I feel, surely "will" come, and with summer come salads. To be a salad "maker", a summer lunch, use either of the two basic biscuit recipes, adding 1/2 cup shredded sharp cheddar cheese to the flour-shortening mixture before adding milk.
This biscuit recipe comes from Mrs. Robert (Elsie) Anderson. I would name it "Surprise Biscuits."
1 cup self rising flour, 3 heaping teaspoons of mayonnaise, 1/2 cup milk, 1/2 cup shortening. Mix well and drop from spoon into six greased muffin tins. Bake at 425 degrees until lightly browned. These are quick and easy. I would call them a cross between a biscuit and a muffin!

Poor Bread (Mrs. Lewis Robins)
1 cup boiling water over 1 cup cornmeal, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon bacon drippings. Add 1 egg, 1/2 cup buttermilk, 1/2 teaspoon soda.
Pour into well greased deep baking dish, Bake 40 to 50 minutes at 375 degrees.

Whole Wheat Rolls
For those who like whole wheat rolls, this is simple.
Dissolve 1 pkg. dry yeast in 1 cup lukewarm water. Beat until creamy 1/4 cup shortening and 2 tablespoons sugar. Add yeast mixture and 1 3/4 cups white flour. Add 1/4 teaspoon salt.
1 1/2 cups whole wheat flour and beat well, knead lightly and refrigerate overnight.
Make out into rolls, brush top with butter. Let rise in warm place several hours. Bake 400 degrees for 60 minutes.
All these recipes are good and simple. None require kneading. The dough should be risen usually 12 hours before using and it may be 4 or 5 days in the refrigerator. If rolls are not perfect the first time, don't give up—it will be your don't have a place warm enough for rolls to rise. I have had to light oven and turn it low and place pan of rolls on top of stove. Feel with your hand to tell how warm it is. If you find them rising too fast, gently move to table in warm room.

MEET JACK REEVES
Mr. Jack Reeves retired from the University of Kentucky in 1968 after a twenty-eight year teaching career.
Shortly after his retirement, the Lexington Leader added the following sentences to the mainfold others offered in applause for his services to the University and to the Commonwealth:
"More than a quarter of a century has gone by since Jack Reeves started teaching political science to young men and women at the University of Kentucky."
"An outspoken liberal Democrat by personal preference, Prof. Reeves was always ready to give ample time in classroom discussion to persons of different views. He even took the other side on occasion, for the sake of encouraging his students to think for themselves."
"Throughout his 28 years as a teacher, which will end this year with retirement, he was always encouraging students to enter into active politics because 'that is what makes a democracy work.' We are sure encouraged as many conservatives and moderate thinkers into politics as he did liberals."
"He has always shown himself a man of firm conviction, but one who could tolerate to hear the other side."

Wright School
whom I have talked, for example, Mr. William Fortson, a UK law professor, wrote Mr. Reeves the following note concerning the above editorial.
"Along with countless others in this state I began to take an interest in politics when I took State Government under Jack Reeves. Steve's (Palmer) editorial hits it on the nose."
Last week Mr. Reeves and I talked at length concerning many different issues and he was kind enough to respond to the several specific questions I asked which are reproduced below.
"I. You have been several types of students come and go at the University. What about the present Communist agitator. You perhaps recall that it was previously printed in this column Mr. Reeves' letter to the author of the above sheet, Mr. Martin Vance, and Mr. Vance's reply.
"What kind of person is Mr. Reeves? The above editorial, taken from the Lexington paper exactly as originally printed, is certainly indicative of the general campus sentiment, at least among those who have sat in his classes with
