Surveys have been conducted in many lands to find out what newspaper headline people would most like to see. Almost invariably their choice was: Cancer Cure Found.

An end to cancer is everyone's dream. Make it come true. Fight cancer with a checkup and a check.

After the tremendous scientific triumph attained when men walked on the moon, many people asked a pointed question. "Why can't the same resources be devoted to finding a cancer cure?" Much has already been found and that's why one of three cancer patients is now being saved. Doctors tell us it could be one of two saved if the cancer is diagnosed in time and properly treated.

To help meet these urgent needs the Cancer Crusade this year deserves greater support than ever before.

Anyone interested in helping in any way with the crusade in the County, please call 289-2324.

The Business District will be canvassed by Mrs. Keller Hughes and Mrs. J.M. Pitman.

FOXHUNT, STATE MAYBE

Directors of CKFA Plan Meet

The Directors of the Central Kentucky Foxhunters Association met in Carlisle, March 6, for the purpose of formulating plans for the 1970 Hunt, which will be held here. There has been some speculation as to whether the Kentucky State Hunt would accept an invitation to come to Carlisle this year. The directors voted to dispense with its 1970 Hunt and concentrate on the success of the big hunt if Kentucky State accepts the invitation. Steve Brown, of Walnut Hall Farm, Lexington and president of the Central Kentucky announced that the facilities of the Sky View Farm would be available for the hunters.

The invitation to the directors of the Kentucky State will be made by a committee from the Central Kentucky members, together with Mr. Brown, manager of Sky View Farm, at their April meeting in Lexington. It is thought that the invitation will be accepted.

The various clubs in the community have indicated their willingness to help with this great sporting event and a detailed organization will be formed when the formal acceptance of the invitation is made.

Present Portable Classroom Is Best In School District Architect Tells Group

"This is by far the best classroom you have in this school district," stated Gene Farley of Luckett and Farley Architects, as he showed a slide of one of the temporary portable classrooms located at Headquarters.

This statement was the only bright spot in a long series of slides shown Thursday night at Carlisle Elementary of the existing facilities at all three County elementary schools. As each slide was shown, Farley commented on the inadequancies and dangers depicted.

He also compared these slides with other slides of new schools throughout the state for the purpose of showing what is needed to make these schools safe and decent places in which to learn.

"It would cost more money to repair it (Carlisle Elementary) than to build a new building to house the same number of students," he stated, as he listed the improvements needed. Carlisle Elementary school building is 80 years old.

He said that the toilets of all three schools are as clean as they can be under the circumstances, and that they are completely unsanitary.

The School Board is asking for the taxpayers to approve a 20 cents per $100 of assessed valuation on March 26, to build a new elementary school to house students from all three present schools.

The cost of the proposed building would be $1,350,000 of which $375,000 of capital outlay money is available. This would leave a balance of $975,000 to be paid by the taxpayers.

The proposed building would accomodate grades 1 thru 5 on one side and grades 6 thru 8 on the other, with the middle area between the two, consisting of library, kitchen, cafeteria, gymnasium with stage, health room, storage, and music rooms.

It would, therefore, separate Jr. High from the Grades and still be in one building which is naturally more economical than the two buildings recommended by the State Department of Education. Savings also would be obtained by centralizing transportation and administration. Additionally, a more comprehensive improved curriculum would be possible in combining all three schools.

The proposed school could be ready by the Fall of 1971 if the tax is approved on March 26. It would house 1140 students which is 120 more than there are now, according to Farley.
