
Remember Me?

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following was sent to us by one of our subscribers in July. I think this an appropriate week to use it).

YOU REMEMBERED! . . .

The following article was written by Leland C. Scott, an employee of the Flick-Reedy Corporation. Mr. Scott is a Home Operator on the first shift. A veteran of World War II, he is a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tioga Post, No. 2149, Bensenville, IL., where he is a member of the Color Guard Unit. Having viewed the attitude and respect, or lack therof, of our citizenry toward our American Flag, he was prompted to write this article, in which the flag is talking to us as the embodiment of Uncle Sam.

Hello, remember me? Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Stars and Stripes; also I have been referred to as the Star Spangled Banner. But what ever they call me, I am your flag, or as I proudly state, the flag of the United States of America. There is something that has been bothering me, so I thought that I might talk it over with you. Besides it is about you and me.

I remember some time ago, I think it was Memorial Day. People were lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade. The town's high school band was in back of me and naturally I was leading the parade. When your daddy saw me coming along waving in the breeze, he immediately removed his hat and placed it against his left shoulder so that his hand was directly over his heart. Remember?

And you, I remember you. Standing there as straight as a soldier you didn't have any hat but you were giving the right salute. They taught you in school to place your hand over your heart. Remember little sister--not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you. I was very proud as I came down your street. There were some soldiers home on leave and they were standing at attention giving the military salute. Ladies as well as men all paying me reverence that I deserve.

Now I may sound as if I am a little conceited. Well I am. I have a right to be. Because I represent the finest country in the world, the United States of America. More than one aggressive nation has tried to haul me down but they all felt the fury of this freedom loving country. You know, you had to go and defend me. And a mighty fine job you did too.

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh I have a couple more stars added since you were a boy. A lot more blood has been shed since that Memorial day so long ago. Dad is gone now. The old home town has a new look. The last time I came down your street I saw some of the old landmarks were gone, but in their place shining majestically in the sun were a number of new buildings, beautiful new homes. Yes sir, the old town sure has changed.

But now I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets and give me a small glance and then look away. When I think of all the places I have been, Attalo, Guadalcanal, Korea and Viet Nam. Who knows where I'll be next. Then I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take his hat off and then look around. He didn't see anybody else with theirs off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic any more? Have you forgotten what I stand for? Have you forgotten all the battlefields where men fought and died to keep this nation free? When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls sometime. Look at the names of those that never came back. Some of them were friends or relatives of yours. Probably went to the same school with some of them. That's what you are saluting. Not me.

Well it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So when you see me, stand straight and place your hand over your heart and you'll really see me waving back. My salute to you. And I'll know that. . .

You remembered!

Did you know that late in the 1880's the United States had three-cent pieces struck in silver (then nickel), twenty-cent pieces in silver and a dollar in gold? The gold dollars now valued from $37.50 to $1,250.00 are the smallest U. S. coins.

Hunting Season Just Around The Corner

Since the early days when Daniel Boone roamed the countryside, the Bluegrass State has been a "happy hunting ground" for Kentucky and visiting hunters.

From the Hills of Eastern Kentucky to the banks of the Mississippi River in Western Kentucky, game life is in quantity and a variety of hunted animal can be found in one section or all over—such abundance and variety has made Kentucky one of the top preserves in the country.

Squirrels, quail, rabbit, grouse, doves, deer, raccoon, woodcock, geese, ducks, and turkey, are available in profusion, during the hunting season in Kentucky.

Western Kentucky produces one of the nation's largest crops of mourning doves, while the eastern mountains, heavily timbered, attract great concentrations of ruffed grouse.

Rabbits, squirrels and quail, in that order, remain the top game harvest each year.

The state also has some of the finest commercial and quail preserves in the country. Kentucky's primitive weapons area, in the Cumberland National Forest, was the first of its kind in the United States hunting, an age-old favorite sport, is again becoming popular.

With the exception of the ruffed grouse, most of the commonly hunted game animals in this section of the country can be found in any part of the state. By species, excluding deer, here's some general information, seasons, prospects, and bag limits of popular games.

SQUIRRELS: Increasingly good mast crops have been the main force behind an increase in the squirrel population, especially in the Appalachian Plateau region. The state has two squirrel seasons. The first opened Aug. 15 and entended through Oct. 31 with the second season being from Nov. 19 to Dec. 31. Daily limit: 6. Possession limit: 12.

RABBITS, QUAIL AND FUR-BEARERS: The season for rabbits, quail and furbearers opens Nov. 19, extending through Jan. 31. Rabbits have become the most popular game hunted in the state. Daily limit: 6. Possession limit: 12. Quail are the third most hunted game. Daily limit: 10. Possession limit: 20. There are no limits on the number of pelts that can be taken during the season on furbearers.

GROUSE: Kentucky native pheasants, or ruffed grouse, exist now in larger numbers than at any other time during the past 20 years. These fast-flying birds prefer the thickly wooded Eastern Kentucky mountains. The season lasts from Nov. 19 until Feb. 28. Daily limit: 4. Possession limit: 8.

DOVES: Western Kentucky for years has been a great producer of mourning doves because of the vast amounts of corn and grain in the section. The Central and Bluegrass sections also have high dove populations. The first of the two seasons opened Sept. 1 through Oct. 31; the second season will begin Dec. 1, lasting through Dec. 9. Daily limit: 18. Possession limit: 36.

WATERFOWL: The duck season opens Dec. 4 and closes Jan. 17. The daily limit of four may include not more than 2 wood ducks, 1 canvasback or 1 redhead. Possession limit, of eight may include not more than 4 wood ducks, 1 canvasback or 1 redhead.

Mallards or black ducks may make up the entire daily or possession bag limit. The goose season opens Nov. 16, extends through Jan. 24. The daily and possession limits are five. Daily limits may not include more than 2 Canadas or 2 whitefronted or 1 of each. Possession may include not more than 4 Canadas and whitefronted in aggregate of which not more than 2 may be whitefronted. A hunter may have in his possession after two or more days, Canadas but never more than 2 whitefronted. Geese may not be shipped or transported in any manner, except as personal baggage of the hunter taking the birds. Sunrise to sunset is permitted for both ducks and geese.
