Drug Awareness Conference Set For December 3 in Louisville

FRANKFORT—Thousands of Kentuckians are expected to crowd Convention Center in downtown Louisville, Thursday, Dec. 3, for the Drug Awareness Conference called by Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

The conference is the first step in a campaign to provide the public with accurate information about drug abuse, its dangers and where help may be found.

The conference will begin at 10 a.m., with the first two hours open for inspection of drug abuse displays and collection of informational materials. Qualified personnel also will be available to answer questions.

At the same time, six former addicts from Matrix House, a self-help organization of former drug abusers, will be on hand to answer questions and discuss their experiences.

A film on drug abuse will be shown continuously between 10 a.m. and 12:45 p.m.

The general session will begin at 1 p.m., with opening remarks by Governor Nunn, Louisville Mayor Frank Burke and Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach.

The session will open with a panel discussion of drug abuse symptoms, reasons for drug addiction, treatment, and the role of parent, church and school in controlling the problem.

The panel will be composed of a former addict and the mother of an addict as well as representatives of law enforcement, medicine, religion, education and the legal profession.

Dr. Dale Farabee, commissioner of Mental Health, then will discuss the role of Comprehensive Care Centers and County Drug Education Committees in the commonwealth's program on drug abuse.

Governor Nunn will make closing remarks, and the exhibits and displays will be open to the public until 6 p.m.

Approximately 35,000 invitations have been mailed to civic and professional organizations, Wendell P. Butler, superintendent of Public Instruction, has urged County School Superintendents to provide school buses to transport students and parents to the conference.

Governor Nunn has proclaimed the week of Nov. 30 thru Dec. 6 as Drug Awareness Week in Kentucky.

Christian Thanksgiving Carlisle Style

The evidence of a community thankfulness will be evidenced on Wednesday evening when Dr. S. Evans Brown will speak on the subject of "Let's Be Thankful!" His message will be the culmination of a service of thankfulness expressed by the community as they gather to give thanks to God for the bountifulness of the material harvest as well as the spiritual harvest.

Many people will want to be present for this service since it is the official welcoming service of Dr. and Mrs. S. Evans Brown to our community. Another reason for attending this service is that the Carlisle Community Youth Chorus will give its first performance. This group consists of 60 plus young people representing nearly every church in Carlisle and some from Nicholas County as well.

The service will begin at 7:30 p.m. The offering that will be taken will be given for the assistance of getting more equipment for our recreational facilities. The Nicholas County Recreational Council will be the recipients of the offering.
