Fisher met in Lexington Monday night with television personality Joe Higgins, better known to viewers as the Dodge Safety Sheriff, to launch a quarter million dollar advertising campaign by dealers in portions of Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio in the Dodge's Cincinnati sales region.

Higgins, whose family home is in Logansport, IN and who graduated from the University of Dayton, was flown to Lexington from his Hollywood home for a week of personal appearances throughout the three-state area. In five gatherings within the region he will meet with 141 dealers from 126 communities, press and civic leaders to kick-off the first of its kind and largest cooperative campaign by dealers in the Cincinnati region.

The six week campaign will utilize newspapers, radio, television and outdoor advertising to create "Dodge City" awareness in each dealer community. It is the first time the dealers have joined for their own campaign immediately after national programs introducing new models.

Following the kick-off meeting the dealers will initiate extensive advertising and promotion activities under the "Dodge City" theme which they selected to emphasize the return of the "good old value days" from another era.

City to Lease Gas Sniffer

City Council decided to lease a gas sniffer to find gas leaks from Southern Cross in Atlanta, GA, at a cost of $25 per day for 10 days.

At Monday night's regular meeting, It was decided that leasing the equipment twice a year was less expensive for the City than to try to buy one and maintain it.

Foxhunt Termed Successful

The Kentucky State Foxhunters Association Field Trials closed here last Thursday after a very successful three-day hunt.

The meet began Oct. 12 with a Bench Show where dogs participated from Kentucky and neighboring states.

Foxhound patrons expressed the opinion that this was one of the finest shows conducted at the Kentucky State in years.

All classes were more than filled past ten places and Clyde Kazee, Louisa, one of the country's finest judges, had a difficult time selecting the winners.

Ten casts were made each morning at day break on the extensive and beautiful acres of Sky View Farm with Steve Brown, president of the Corporation.

If anyone should see a stray hound with numbers, they are requested to contact either Roger Womack, Pete Reid or Roy Blount. One or two hunters left the state without recovering their prized hounds. Your help will be appreciated.

The largest entry of hounds ever participating in this hunt was cast at daybreak Tuesday morning--413 in number.

The Master of Hounds, Lester Hansel of Cincinnati raised his hat and cast them just as the sun splashed through drizzling rain at daybreak.

About 100 riders followed the 16 judges and exclaimed at the marvelous landscape and scenery of the beautiful hunting country.

The riders and their excellent horses from Hunt Clubs throughout the State made a picture to delight the heart of an artist.

Many hill toppers also observed the running from prominent points of view and several times sighted both the fox and hounds in full cry.

The cast was made on both Wednesday and Thursday morning at the Sky View Farm in a slight drizzle of rain but each day the sun smiled at daybreak and the hounds continued to run to form.

The Derby Hounds, under two years of age, were finished Wednesday afternoon and the winner was Joy, owned by Betty Lou Grafton and Mr. Folks of Louisville, and Dover, TN.

The All-Age Championship finished Oct. 15 and the winner was Payne W., owned by Juntor McKee of Fleming County.

The Fall hunt this year was considered by all to be an excellent one from every point of view, and all foxhuters are indeed grateful to the more than 100 citizens of Nicholas County who made the arrangements for this excellent sporting affair. Roger Womack, Roy Blount and Steve Brown were co-chairmen.
