City, County Officials Meet To Start Landfill at County Farm

Smoot Accepts Hinkle Corporation Position

John Smoot, a native Nicholas Countyman, has accepted a position as Assistant Programmer in the Accounting Department of Hinkle Contracting Corporation in Paris. Smoot, a June graduate from Eastern Kentucky University, is married to the former Lorraine Frey, daughter of Mrs. Billy Frey and the late Mr. Frey of Carlisle. Smoot's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Smoot of Nicholas County. The Smoots have one child, John Randall, and live on Iris Street in Millersburg.

City and County officials met Monday night with Spindlerp researchers in the Courthouse to discuss solid waste landfill possibilities for trash disposal for Carlisle-Nicholas County. This will be the first time that County residents will be furnished a place in which to dispose of trash.

Since the Spindlerp project will not be operable before the first of the year and the City Dump contract expires Oct. 1, the two groups agreed to use the back of the County Farm for a combined landfill for City and County as a temporary measure. The site has been approved by a Kentucky State Department of Health representative as meeting the landfill requirements.

City Council will meet again with the Fiscal Court on Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. to discuss final arrangements, including a charge. The charge to those using the landfill will involve rental, bulldozer hours, since a landfill requires that the dumped trash be covered with dirt at the end of each day and the cost of supervising the gate to the landfill to determine who is using it.

The site chosen on the County Farm will be level and usable land if used as a proper landfill long enough. This is the main idea behind landfill, aside from the obvious one of disposing of trash, according to the Spindlerp researchers. Jerry Gehrt and Dave Schmeling of Spindlerp showed a movie concerning solid waste disposal methods and their end products across the nation. Scenes were shown where parks and buildings have been built on top of landfills after the communities had finished with them.

Gehrt stated that if Carlisle, Cynthiana and Millersburg cooperated in a landfill through their non-profit corporation, the cost would be $3.10 per person per year. If Carlisle should operate a landfill alone the cost would amount to $12.75 per person per year.

The main problem that the county has is that it has no established collection system for trash. The City has such a system, the charge for which must be raised to get it out of the red.

Eventually, maybe the County can provide trash collection in some form, but at present Nicholas Counties will have to take their trash to the landfill site for disposal.

Because of the lateness of the hour, City Council adjourned until Thursday night without handling the regular business. The next session on Thursday will be a continuation of Monday's regular meeting.

New Head Named For Farmers Home

Kelly Thompson, Harrodsburg, has accepted the position of County Supervisor for Nicholas and Harrison Counties for the Farmers Home Administration. He replaces Rob Roy Norton who has retired.

OR DOWN for that matter, painting of stone fronts and buildings in Carlisle seems to be in vogue right now. It makes Carlisle look a lot more lively, beautiful or whatever adjective you care to use to describe how matter. And the long lens makes distances look short. ## 'Do Something' Arthritis Drive Seeks $700

Ignorance and apathy in the face of crippling arthritis can be overcome through vigorous public support of the "Do Something" fund-raising campaign for 1970, Mrs. Cliff House, chairman of the Arthritis Drive, declared yesterday. A house-to-house drive will be held Monday, Sept. 28, she said.

She announced a goal of $700 for the campaign, which opened Sept. 16. The Nicholas County Chapter of FFA had a house-to-house drive on Sept. 2. On Sept. 19, there was a road block campaign.

"This money is needed not only to help victims of arthritis and to support science's search for a cure or prevention," Mrs. House said. "A good part of it will go toward educating the public on what it means to have arthritis, and what can be done about it. The fact is—and this will be good news to a lot of people if we can just get the message to them—that something can be done about arthritis."

"The 'Do Something' slogan is a slogan of protest," she concluded. "It is an appeal for action against arthritis now. Everything that can be done about arthritis should be done, and the public can demand it by contributing to the 1970 fund campaign to be launched by the Kentucky Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation."
