

The Preacher's Plight

THE COLUMBIA (Martins, Georgia) News featured a "letter" by a minister, pointing out a homogenous language—the plight of preachers with which we can all sympathize.

"The preacher said at our men's meeting the other night. He talked about today's preachers. The doctor pointed out that today's ministers lacked a proper 'hell' image. He showed how years ago the clergy knew what they were supposed to do; preach, teach, and visit. Nowadays they are expected to do everything to everybody and as a result they are not doing it. He said that preachers today don't know whether they should preach sermons or do social work. They don't know whether to study the Bible or the latest welfare laws."

"After the doctor was finished he opened up the subject for discussion. He asked how a preacher's place was in the pulpit during and teaching the Gospel. John S. Rowland said he thought the minister's place was being a good example. After all, with the church adding more and more hired hands, somebody needed to be the form."

"Ben Tunt, home over the weekend from college, said the preacher's job was in the streets, demonstrating and helping the poor."

But before the meeting ended I got up and left because I was getting a headache. Folks expect me to be a social worker, a business executive, a financial wizard, a psychiatrist and a street demonstrator, all in the same person.

Mr. Editor, sometimes I think preachers are confused 'cause they've been trying to follow instead of lead. A shepherd don't lead his people; he follows them.

Well, I'm going to close and read the Good Book. It's still got some good stuff in it.

Farm & Home

Small Grain Seeding

WINTER WHEAT—The high yielding potential of this crop have increased its use on many Kentucky farms including wheat, late plantings and heavy tramping. It can be seeded from Oct. 15 to November, and has been known to survive and provide spring wheat when seeded even later dates. The seeding rate for winter wheat is two to two 1/2 bushels per acre when seeded early, and up to three bushels per acre when seeded late.

WINTER BARLEY—One of the most desirable small grains, with a grain quality that compares favorably with corn. The grain will be well seeded for the crop to perform best. All other UK recommended varieties are OK to plant in the fall. The normal seeding rate for winter barley is from one to one 1/2 bushels per acre when seeded early, and up to three bushels per acre if seeded late.

THE FIRST TIME they held their first Saturday afternoon, the first thing that popped into KAY's mind, it was the making of Christmas pecan cakes—all four of 'em.

LONG LIVED—The issues of the Carlisle Mercury are kept in the house for longer periods of time than most people believe.

Henry Carter, president of the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce was in need of several issues during 1969, via a classified ad. Carter stated he was flooded with Mercurys. By a unanimous vote, the committee decided to purchase the complete files from October 1969 to the present.

THE BETTER HALF—When I'm finished with my jury duties Monday morning, my better half asked, "Why don't you tell about that in your MY COLUMN?" Well, folks, you've been waiting for the Grand Jury and just because you belong to this liberated group, don't think that we'll be incorporated into writing something out-of-turn.

COLD FOOTING SMOKE?—Where's that amoke there? It's where—WRONG, at least it's passed by Lake Cartico early Monday morning.

THE DIED TYPE

Came across a copy of a new sick leave policy for employees that is more to newspapers than anywhere. We posted on our bulletin board to give our employees a heads up on the new policy. The following changes are in effect immediately.

"Absence (no excuse) will no longer accept your statement of proof, as long as you are able to call, you are able to call, you are able to call."

"Death (other than your own)—This is no excuse. There is nothing you can do for them and we are sure that someone else in a better position can attend to the arrangements. However, if the funeral can be held in the late afternoon (4:30) we will gladly pay for 15 minutes early providing that your share of the work is ahead enough to keep the job going in your absence."

"Absence for an operation—We are no longer willing to pay for an operation unless you have had an operation as we believe as long as you are employed here, you need not of whatever you have and you should not come back having anything removed from you as you were able to have anything removed would certainly make you less than we bargained for."

FRANKFORT—The almost silent debate over the merits or demerits of a primary next April still ripples through the Republican Party like an underground river.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has quietly taken a position against the primary on the grounds that it would become divisive at a time when the Republicans have shown their greatest strength in the last 50 years in the state. But he doesn't make a strong case about his position. His remarks about his position have low key all along, more as an advisory statement than a position as a party leader.

The governor believes that a primary would not necessarily produce the best man or the strongest candidate.

Only two prospects remain contenders for the Republican nomination for governor. Sources here close to the administration are in almost unanimous agreement that the primary would favor Tom Emertson as emerged as the choice. But former Parks Commissioner Robert Cable haan't made convinced this point. He is still testing the field and says he has found enough support throughout the state and in the various political parties to run for office.

The finance primary without calling on party members for aid. Apparent support for the primary administration's backing, would be primarily from the business and administration sources.

But the debate isn't heated. Both sides make good points, but the debate isn't heated.

There are some of the points they make:

For or against, many farmers here are in a bind. They are with winter hardiness, land adaptation, and the fact that the primary is another real problem with the winter oats, especially when the seeding rates usually range from 1 1/2 to 2 bushels per acre. The time for seeding are the same as those for winter wheat. The primary should be grazed, Thompson also adds to make use of small grain on its own farm.

One of the reasons for the program, row that the Southern leaf blight is spreading rapidly and is being carried to the state by the University's football field is frowned upon by the Finance Department here.

The 100th anniversary of the Nicholas County Youth Fair was held Oct. 5 and 6, before an estimated crowd of 3,500 persons, 190,275.

It was awarded winners of varied count.

It is a meeting Monday night, Mayor W.C. Talbert was given the honor of the first prize for the construction of the Shaly Construction Company. Lexington, for construction of the Carlisle gas project.

Albert C. Lee of Williamsburg, entered into his duties as associate agriculture instructor in the Nicholas County High School.

Draft notices have been mailed to those who are in the military service. Franks, James Harry Burnaw, John Allen Eason and Charles William Morrison.

A large crowd of Nicholas County was on hand at the court- been a primary election in recent years that did not find some one who was the best man for the job. The party favorite may die between the filing deadline and the primary election. If the unexpected should happen, the primary advocates argue that the party would still have a strong candidate in the field and not lose to the democrats by default.

Meanwhile the Democratic candidate, Judge Bert T. Combs and Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford are slowly cranking up their campaigns, putting organizations together, and preparing to hit the campaign bus after the November election.

The campaign probably won't get into high gear until next spring, but these two are laying the foundation now.

Some party members generated a lot of publicity for the potential party candidate, but they are not getting too far out among the voters to test their strength.

Combs has given the most attention to the subject, and Governor Nunn has been smart enough to see the situation for the benefit of the candidates.

Ford has opened his campaign headquarters in Frankfort with Glen (Rusky) Carpenter, former UPJ (Capital) bureau chief here, in charge of publicity.

Combs has his headquarters at the Executive Inn at Louisville and has a staff working.

Capitol employees are leaving a plumb 1970 Oldsmobile for the use of its president and other officials to the tune of $17 a month.

The University of Kentucky may lose $263,251 of its trust funds invested in the bankrupt Pennsylvania Steel.

This has brought to light the fact that the University earned $910,000 on its investments last year, but this figure never appears in the budget.

Present of installing a new football field is being carried out by the University's football field is frowned upon by the Finance Department here.

MEAT INSPECTION PROGRAM SEEKS CLEAN, WHOLESOME PRODUCTS

Kentucky's meat inspection program must be "equal to" the Federal Meat Inspection Program by Oct. 1.

This means that following Oct. 1, a Federal survey team will be checking Kentucky's program to see that packing plants and slaughtering houses operating in Kentucky are in compliance with the requirements of the Wholesome Meat Act. By Dec. 15 of this year, all states must have their programs equal to the Federal program.

The Federal survey team will pick some 30 to 35 plants selected from the list of plants operating in Kentucky. The plants selected will be inspected to see if a single plant fails to measure up to requirements. Kentucky's entire program will be subject to rejection.

Personnel in our Meat Inspection Division have been working hard to get as many as possible of our plants and slaughtering houses up to standard. Those which are not are being notified that they are in order. The requirements of the Federal Meat Inspection Act.

In cases where they can't meet the requirements, they have been given a period of time to make the necessary changes are made. Some plants are being referred to physical facilities, while others have been closed because of poor sanitation methods.

The purpose of the Meat Inspection Act is to insure clean, wholesome meat products for the consumer.

Japan—Greatest Off-Shore Customer For U. S. Farmers

Nicholas County residents are well aware that U.S. shipments to Japan last year were the largest in extensive, Harvey Wagener, chairman of the Nicholas County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, commented recently.

"Almost everyone recognizes that the Japanese are important customers for Japanese goods. I wonder how many of us realize that the Japanese are major customers for American goods, especially for American farm commodities."

"In fact, Japan imports more U.S. agricultural products than any other country in the world—a record $1.1 billion worth during the 1970 fiscal year," Mr. Wagener said.

He pointed out that feed grain, wheat, and tobacco are important farm crops in Nicholas County and that exports of these farm products to Japan have gone up dramatically in recent years.

The ASC Committee chairman reported that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin recently took note of the American-Japanese trade story, calling it unprecedented.

Secretary Hardin also said, "The Japanese economy has paralleled that of our own in the past few years. Japanese shipments in world trade have almost doubled again, reaching $16 billion. Shipments to the United States increased in those nine years by more than four times—$4.9 billion."
