Miss Bettye Mastin Speaks At Garden Club Monday

Miss Bettye Lee Mastin, home page editor of The Lexington-Herald-Leader was guest speaker at the Carlisle Garden Club Monday afternoon in the Methodist Church Annex.

Her topic was "Brighten Your Corner," in which she stressed using whatever space available around your home to plant flowers and make it more attractive. She also pointed out that it is the front yard which others see, that should be especially beautiful. This was illustrated with slides of gardens large and small, formal and simple door steps made both on trips to Europe and in the United States.

Joycees Support Clean-Up Week

The Carlisle Joycees, as part of their participation in the local community "Clean-Up Week" to be held April 22-May 1, urge every citizen and organization to join them in making the community a cleaner, healthier and more attractive place in which to live.

As stated by Joyce clean-up Chairmen Jay Morford and Jim Hall "the city and county have never been dirtier or more littered. If each property owner and businessman would spend a little time cleaning up the areas around their homes and businesses, and public officials and civic organizations would see to the beautification of our public areas, the litter and pollution would soon disappear. Then more active enforcement of our anti-litter and anti-pollution laws and some thoughtfulness and consideration on the part of the general public would help to keep our community free of unsightly and unhealthy litter and pollution. We live in an "All Kentucky" community—why not help to make it look like one?"

The Joycees will be working on various clean-up and beautification projects during "Clean-Up Week", and anyone wishing their assistance is asked to call Chairman Morford or Hall.

sharing plan for cities and counties; the creation of a Department of Environmental Protection, a reasonable salary increase for school teachers, major emphasis on the upgrading of our rural secondary and farm-to-market roads, a severance tax on minerals, and a financial disclosure law," Combs said.

Combs said, "I favor a financial disclosure law and have been advocating the passage of such a law since this campaign began. I believe the people of Kentucky are entitled to know where a candidate for high public office and public officials get their income. The smear campaign was begun by our opposition in this campaign and I will be happy to open my books for public inspection."

Combs also pledged to establish a state program to assist local communities solve the sewage and solid waste disposal problems. Making reference to the fact that Wendell Ford had worked for him as an administrative assistant during his term as Governor, Combs said, "We all make mistakes, and one of my greatest mistakes was helping the Lt. Governor to get where he is at present."
