When you read this Christmas will be gone, just the kind deeds will last. As you have already guessed our world is confused, but we must remember the time when in wading out who we watched over in the nursing home has been in the mind of a man has had over 10,000 years of experience.

I'm sure you don't believe that a picture on the front page last week. I don't believe that "Miss" "Mrs. R. Adeline" name was mentioned. The "Miss" "Mrs." was by - side in training the kind-argued. The "Miss" "Mrs." was a part in this party too. If she hadn't there wouldn't have been any pictures.

Have you been wondering why Jim Honaker wears that silk shirt, especially on Sunday morning, well, Matthew Campbell comes each Sunday and takes Jim to the Assembly of God Sunday School and Church. Jim wears a pin on his coat for Sunday School attendance, which I believe is for 14 years now. How aren't you young men ashamed of yourselves?

Palmer Sorrell had a basket of fruit from Mr. Souza, he said he had company from George town too. He has much company. Elmer Frederick has a big red shirt on his table. Elmer is worried because he has two feet and only one shoe. Maybe Nancy Shaw and Christine Booth can do something about it.

Landon Stewart has a big tray of fruit and candy, said Nancy Price, one of the late Lawrence Price, had brought it from Lexington, Lawrence and Landon had roomed together.

How far the little candle throws its beam, so shines a good deed in a naughty world. -Shakespeare On Sunday/Dec. 19, Dr. S. Evans Brown came with the Presbyterians and gave a wonderful message to the folks. Everyone had the spirit of Christmas as he worked in the new chapel. Behind the lights the wooden cross could be seen and Rev. Brown stood behind the beautiful new lectern, Mrs. J. M. Pitman played the piano, then a trio consisting of Mrs. Wilson, Janet Booth and Lisa Reynolds, sang "Oh Holy Child, in honor of your own Mrs. MacTerry who wrote both words and melody in 1954. "Miss" Mae was asked to stand.

I was about to forget to say just before we went into the chapel we met the boys, Billy Clark and Damon Booth. They were pushing large carts of candy and fruit which they passed to the folks, as we came out of the chapel.

one lady said, "she shore did enjoy that meeting", that they offered her a song book, but she couldn't call her much less sing. There was a polkaette in Mrs. Kinney's room, said was, "one of them shore brought flowers".

Miss Esias Ditzell had a pretty Christmas arrangement, said Santa and all, was made by the same person who made the beautiful floral arrangements.

"Miss" Mienie had a beautiful blue silk robe said came from one of her daughters. As they stated before she loves pretty bright colors. In fact, all the old people do.

"Dan Burden has so many children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren that there isn't a room to put them all down. They are loyal to him too.

The home and all Mrs. Sherman and her husband, the death of her husband, eight of her nine children and many of her grandchildren, even as far away as Texas came to see her, Mrs. McCarthy knows that "Gaddy" as she calls him, had visited her home.

Mrs. Vada Poltry had a pretty little music box of carols which played "Joy to the World" which she has brought to the home.

The Christmas favors were by the Nicholas County High School Home Economics class.

There was a beautiful little flower arrangement, birds in cages, in each room. This was from the Shumates.

We wish to extend our sympathy to Mrs. Velma Hixson who recently lost her sister in Covington.

'72-predicted year

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION
The residential building picture "aved the bacon" for 1971. Strength was centered largely in housing and in heavy construction related to the generation of electric power. For all practical purposes, the building picture of the main show in the building field, with an average annual rate equaled by multi-unit for 1971 compared with 1.4 million units started in 1970. I look ahead, Babson's Reports forecasts that the building picture will continue in the forefront of a high level of total building and construction activity. The chief ingredients for sustaining the building boom in housing should again be present in the year ahead: Money and credit for mortgage demand are ample; the cost of the long-term credit has backed away somewhat from peak levels; and the rate of new family formations is definitely on the upswing. Indeed, the labor force is expected to be in the 1970's, and the rate of new family formations is definitely on the upswing. PERSONAL INCOME AND EMPLOYMENT
The emergency freeze and the subsequent controlled economy slowed the upward trend of personal income. Not only were wages frozen, but the freeze restrained rental income of individuals and non-corporate entities, while investment income from dividends and interest likewise leveled off. In view of the generous awards approved by the Pay Board, we forecast a resumption of the upward trend in total personal income in the year ahead. Babson's forecast calls for gross personal income in 1972 of about 8% above that of 1971.

CONSUMER SPENDING
The Babson staff forecasts a good increase in consumer spending for 1972. A beginning of the long-awaited revival in consumer spending was evident during the past year, even though, for the most part, retail trade was sporadic and periods of profligate gains.

BOND MARKET OUTLOOK
The decline, during 1971 was abrupt for short-term money rates; but more gradual at the longer end of the maturity scale. In summary, we expect recently enacted tax relief measures to provide some benefit for both the individual and corporate taxpayers.

TAXES
Taxpayers should experience at least a small degree of relief at the Federal level on income taxes during 1972. However, part of this advantage will undoubtedly be negated at the state and municipal levels, where new or higher taxes seem unavoidable for taxation of income, personal property, and sales on products and services. But it will be nip and tuck even at the Federal level, unless the improvement in business brings a sudden expansion in revenues from taxes, and unless Federal expenditures can be reduced from currently projected levels. The odds are that, in view of election-year considerations, the danger of a Federal income tax boost will be greater in 1973 than in 1972. For corporations, restoration of the investment tax credit will yield some tax advantage at the Federal level. In summary, we expect recently enacted tax relief measures to provide some benefit for both the individual and corporate taxpayers.
