Here we are again wondering what to do with these bits of leftover turkey, ham or what have you. You probably feel you never want another bit of turkey again. Unless there is really enough to justify freezing a good size portion whole, I would suggest making a casserole and freezing for use later. Six months from now it would be no good to have a meal of practically ready just by thawing. Try this if you have only a small portion of meat. Cook 1 cup of macaroni according to package directions. Make 1 1/2 cup rich well seasoned cheese sauce. In 2 tablespoons of margarine cook about 1/4 green pepper and one medium onion until limp. Add 1 can of mushroom pieces and one chicken bouillon cube. Combine 1 cup or more of turkey with drained macaroni and other ingredients according to taste. Add onion, celery, carrot, 1/2 cup of cheese sauce over all. Sprinkle with paprika and heat well bubbly in 350 degree oven. You may want to try this once while hot. What is left, let get cold in dish, then remove with spatula, to freeze in plastic and wrap securely and allow it to freeze all night. If you want to cut into amount needed for your family or save what you want.

HOT TURKEY 'N' CHIPS
2 cups cooked, cubed turkey (or chicken)
2 cups finely diced celery
1/2 cup chopped almonds
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons ground onion
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1 cup crushed potato chips
Combine all ingredients except cheese and potato chips. Spoon lightly into individual buttered custard cups or one large baker. Sprinkle with cheese and chop. Bake in hot oven at 425 degrees until heated through.

If you have cake that is no longer moist, slice and whip cream between each slice then ice over all with whipped cream. Refrigerate overnight.

If your old ham is beyond slicing, remove fat and pat through food mill. Store in plastic jar in refrigerator. It is delicious in ham sandwiches, eggmeatloaf, ham roll, in potato cakes, and scrambled eggs.

You can make delightful appetizers by adding just enough mayonnaise to these bits of leftover turkey, ham or what have you. You probably feel you never want another bit of turkey again. Unless there is really enough to justify freezing a good size portion whole, I would suggest making a casserole and freezing for use later. There and there, depression and the gloom are real, however, as in the airframe industry. My colleague recently told me of hitting a ride with a former mechanical engineer at the Lockheed plant in Georgia. Until last year, when Lockheed was in trouble, this man earned $25,000.00 a year. Now he is a traveling salesman, earning less than half his previous salary.

The airframe industry is especially depressed, and highly trained people accustomed to a good living are the principal victims. The U.S. Senator's opposition to the first time in this country, there was tremendous opposition to an advanced technological development. America can't afford much of that type of opposition—double the amount of it—and remain the world's richest country. The anti-technology mood that emerged in 1970 could mean the loss of another period of failure insofar as the war on inflation is concerned. Though American goods face competition from Japan, Europe and the Middle East, the U.S. economy is still strong.

Federal Land Bank Head Attends Louisville Meet

Roy Fritz, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Mayville has just returned from an information meeting conducted by representatives of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville. The association personnel heard explained the new Blended Interest Rate Loan developed especially for present Land Bank membership. The meeting was held at the Open-End Plan which is a new open-end type mortgage program of the Guaranteed Advance Loan.

difficult competitive situation at home and abroad, the cost of many U.S. products soared because of high wage settlements. Many Americans are weary and heartless at the spread of inflation, which erodes earnings; but there wasn't any evidence in 1970 of a real public demand for action against the root causes of inflation. Labor union leaders expressed their monopolistic powers in 1970 without any fear of a backlash, though some plans have been shut down and working hours were curtailed in several industries. Labor union leaders continued to insist on sharp wage hikes—and thus drove up the cost of goods and services.

For all America's troubles in 1970 were economic in character. Lack of inner discipline was apparent in other areas of the national life. Communism galloped new foothold in this hemisphere.

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times. There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About the economy. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance count, trade-in value and resale value have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value. At Chevrolet, we understand. And our aim is to give that to you, as you fit in the 1971 Chevrolets.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.

Bigness is itself is nothing. But if it allows you to breathe then the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride. The ride in the 1971 Caprice was so give you the looks and comfort of a size-every-thousand-dollar car without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And show all to build it so much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure for 1971. Look, we made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.
