Former Drug Addict

or that will dig where I'm coming from. Sure, I might have had a couple of buddies get ticked off at me, or my mess around with me again, but in the long run, I would have been in a lot better shape.

Believe me, it's really not worth it at all. It's really pretty stupid to risk even the slightest chance of big trouble just to "see what it's like."

4. WHAT DO YOU THINK ARE FACTORS THAT GENERALLY LEAD A PERSON TO ABUSE DRUGS?

I think that the main reason people try drugs is to see what it's like. A lot of people are using drugs today, even legally. One sick commercial I'm reminded of is "Take Compo and be yourself again." Medicine cabinets are stocked full in just about every home in America. Why not try a pink one with a green cap?

If people could be educated to think, instead of going to school to learn data, the drug abuse problem would be helped a great deal.

Services were held at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, at 2 p.m. Sunday, Burial in Ripley Cemetery. Pallbearers: Earl Medley, Charley Naughty, Gene Tanner, Larry Grimes, Wendell Brooks, James Hagen.

I tried drugs because I didn't think about the consequences. But so many people are using drugs today, that the pressure against someone NOT taking drugs is stronger than hell. Maybe the fad will die out, but until it does, a lot of lives are going to be wrecked. In Matrix House, the group pressure is the exact opposite of being cool and getting stoned and it works. Somehow, the group pressure in the streets has got to change. I hope that soon there will be more people who think like the people in Matrix do, and maybe start to put out some of their influence elsewhere.

Another reason I used drugs so much was because I didn't know what else to do with my free time. People have got to start learning constructive things to do with spare time. If this could happen, there wouldn't be enough time to even think about using drugs.

The huge drug problem today is a result of many things wrong in our society. A lot of things are going to have to be changed radically in order to properly deal with the drug problem. I only hope people will be willing enough to give up what is necessary, even though it might be hard, in order to help those who are unable to be human beings.
