Sot-Aside

the crop they grow best at a lower cost. He added that some farmers for years have been locked into certain patterns of producing their crops. The objective of the acreage control features of farm programs, a farmer who had allotments or bases for several crops was encouraged to grow them, and this meant specialization, which could lead to lower production costs. Mr. Wagner said the sot-aside idea seems to fit with trends that have been building in farming over the years. These include the trend in which American farms have grown fewer in number and larger in size, and the trend for producers to become more efficient and more productive. The efficient, competitive producer will be in the best position to take advantage of growing world demands for farm products.

Temperature on an average summer day at the South Pole is about 20 degrees below zero—relatively warm when contrasted with the Pole's winter temperatures, which can dip to -113 degrees.

Conservation

farms—such as ditches and ponds, permanent grass cover, waterways, buffer strips, and tree plantings—will be encouraged. These will be directed toward reducing silt in streams, river lakes, and other bodies of water and toward reducing pollution from animal wastes, fertilizers and pesticides.

Nicholas County farmers are advised that the ASC announcement means we will be able to approve cost-sharing on anti-pollution measures which were available under the REAP and also on long-standing conservation practices as those just named. The ASC Committee chairman, said. As in prior years, applications for conservation cost-sharing will be made at the County ASCS Office and must be approved by the County ASCS Committee before work begins. The farmer-elected committee will continue to select practices best suited for meeting local needs, will determine which farm lands need treatment, will fix the amount of conservation to be provided each approved applicant.

An allocation of REAP funds to Nicholas County is expected to be made soon. Cost-sharing applications by farmers cannot be accepted at their County ASCS office until the 1971 REAP funding is available. The county is announced, Wagner said. Sign-up dates for REAP will be announced when the funds allocation is received. Meanwhile, farmers should determine the practices most needed and estimate costs so they will be ready when the time comes.
