Bill Parker and several of his employees did a real neighborhood thing the other afternoon when they sprinkled two barrels of crankcase oil on the road from his cabin to the top of the hill. More than one family will profit by his generosity.

"National Farm Safety Week" has been observed for July 29-31. It is sponsored by the National Safety Council, Inc., and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Feet are particularly vulnerable to injury on the farm. They can be crushed by dropped or falling objects, stepped on by livestock, run over by farm vehicles and caught in machinery. We'll show you how to minimize these injuries.

It was brought to my attention recently that I was required to write a letter for my car. On the same day I received this information I was to the City Office and purchased one. I paid the regular $5.00 fee. Now the City of Carlisle has a new policy.

It is the matter of money but I believe the law officials should be aware of the fact that the people who break the law - driving without license or some other major offense than being late in paying their city stickers - are driving in BEVERLY.

RECC's Meet, Elect Officers

By Mrs. Fred Holler

With fair weather prevailing, one of the largest crowds in the history of Fleming-Mason RECC attended its 146th annual meeting Tuesday, July 20. Interest in the affair of the 146th meeting co-operative has increased constantly during recent years and member-support has resulted in its steady growth.

The new "Miss Fleming-Mason RECC" was crowned by Miss Ramona Royce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arno Royce, of Flemington, Ky. Royce, who was last year's winner.

As winner of the contest, Miss Royce received her crown, a beautiful trophy, a $150 wardrobe and an all-expense paid three day trip to Louisville. There also will represent Fleming-Mason RECC in the Kentucky RECC Beauty Pageant on Aug. 23.

Runners-up in the closely contested beauty pageant were Miss Susan Kay Johnston, 18, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lester Johnston of Mayville, Route 4, Miss Johnston is a blue-eyed, brunette, 5-foot-10-inch tall, with measurements of 36"-26"-36" 1/2". She is a graduate of Wrightsville, Ga. High School and for the past year attended Grayson Christian College where she was Chaplain of Tri-Hi-Y, cheerleader, member of the FFA and FFA and annual staff member. Her hobbies are croquet, horseback riding and reading. She plans to study Optometry.

She will also attend the Pageant in Louisville and will replace the winner in the contest should it become necessary.

Some of the so called "letter-to-the-editor" people of Carlisle have some strange ideas. Those people think they can get to "Heaven" by driving fancy, new cars, but they are driving in BEVERLY.

THE DIED TYPES

by Russ Tracy

It think it is nice that scientists are getting almost as smart as common folks. I will be pleased the last one of his charges several days ago upon the expiration of their terms.

We have known that hot water will freeze faster than cold water since Hector was a pop. It's an old wives tale and if those scientist fellows had their interest directed the other way instead of loafing around their laboratories, they'd have known about it long ago.

When water freezes near zero C. it forms ice which is hexagonal. When supercooled at that temperature before freezing, ice which is rhomboidal. This is the best kind for making bloody mummy because the ice is compatible with the mummy in your head.

Current interest was aroused from an unusual source. It arose from tobacco in your mouth, shoving it around until it floats freely and then squinting the gob over a rail fence, started the fast-freeze thing.

He and his classmates at Tazania's Nicholas Secondary School were making the day and when Erasto got brownie points because he was always first to see the teacher, the kids wanted to know how come. What Erasto would do was put his bottled milk and sugar mixture in the freezer but it was still hot and the other kids were looking their stuff come down to room temperature before cracking up the ice cream.

His teacher didn't for one minute believe in it because it was against the laws of physics. Probably figured Erasto was getting the whammy put on him by a friendly wood doctor. Then a Dr. A. Salaam University professor got hold of it and found out it works that way. He has handed the ball to other scientists and they are acting like kids with a new toy.

Wish I'd Said That

"Some families can trace their ancestry back 200 years but not their teeth where they were last night" - Ray Savage, Thermopsis (Wyo.) Independent Record.

Your bathroom mirror looks like it has come down with the pox after you use a nylon bristle brush vigorously across your good teeth. I know you are a good toothbrusher and down, but when I do that the bristles come off between my teeth and have to trim them to match my mustache.

With this modern plastic toothpaste and nylon bristle toothbrush, you are brushing in one session when you have pickles teeth like mine. You could chalk up a tongue scraper to the list of things that are good for an affluent society, because it could be worse. You could be using a electric scrubber and getting your tongue nailed to the roof of your mouth.

At the moment, I have gone back to the slippery elm toothbrush. This is a live with one end, one end of which is chewed into fibers of toothbrush into some Old Granddaddy scrub your teeth until they squeak. To give the whole thing a little character, try dipping the frayed end into some Old Granddaddy Garris snuff, or just plain snuff.

Personal hygiene is one of the toothbrush makers went back to hog hair. There was something about it that soaked up the paste and it was gradually being rubbed out of your mouth by your run out of teeth.

Admittedly, my teeth have been very dry from the edges from gnawing on an occasional bone thrown off by a benevolent bear. I have had to use a toothbrush which until very long ago had with toothbrushes.

At the risk of sounding like Ralph Nader, I'd like to grip a spell about a product that hasn't done much for me lately. That's the nylon bristle improved toothbrush. Nylon is supposed to be an advancement over the old hog bristle and cow-hair leaf mix, deep without a pillow, more to Florida, stay out of ragweed patches, chop off your afflicted head.
