The Jackets began to work effectively in the third quarter, getting 12 quick points and trailing by only four. At the peak of Nicholas' scoring streak, however, Harrison's faulty clocks caused a delay in the game and the Jackets never recovered.
Harrison slowly worked themselves into a larger lead and were 17 points ahead when time ran out. After defeating Nicholas, Harrison went on to win the district. They beat Paris by 70 points and out-scored Bourbon 74-41.
