

Completion Dates Important Under REAP Cost Sharing

Farmers who are doing conservation cost-sharing work under the Rural Environmental Assistance Program (REAP) have been reminded that it is important to observe the completion dates set when the practice was approved.

"When a farmer receives approval from the County ASC Committee for conservation or pollution-abatement work on his farm, we set aside part of our fund allocation to share the cost of the work," said Harvey Waggoner, Chairman of the Nicholas County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

"At the same time we set a reporting date for completion of his practice, after a realistic appraisal of the time likely to be needed to get the work done," Mr. Waggoner said.

"It is most important for a farmer to observe this reporting date. Many agricultural conservation and pollution-abatement practices are needed and requested by farmers in Nicholas County. We do not have enough funds to share costs with all who apply.

"When a farmer fails to report he has completed his REAP practice, we are left up in the air not knowing whether to re-allocate the funds for another farmer's practice by another farmer.

"The farmer who makes a timely report of completion has assurance of cost-sharing on his practice. Also, we can re-use program funds if a cost-sharing practice costs less than originally approved for or if a farmer is unable to or decides not to carry out his REAP practice."

The ASC Committee Chairman said a farmer who is unable to complete his conservation cost-sharing work before the completion reporting date should request a time extension from the County ASC Committee.

Ag. Leaflet Available

The do-it-yourself system of certifying crop and soil-acreage under the new farm programs is outlined in a new Department of Agricultural leaflet received by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASC) Office.

The leaflet, entitled "Certifying Your Acreage and Crop Acres" (FA-962), contains a reminder that set-aside, conserving base and crop acres should be in compliance with program provisions when producers are in to certify their final acreage. If program acreage is not in compliance, a farmer can lose all or part of his farm program payment.

The leaflet urges farmers to measure correctly, or to obtain measurement service from the County ASC Office, because no changes can be made after crop acreage has been certified. Harvey Waggoner, Chairman of the Nicholas County ASC Committee, said farmers who follow acreage guides outlined in the leaflet, along with their farm's planting history, alignment, conservation base and set-aside requirements. "And the only expense the farmer incurs is a nominal fee for having a trained man come out to stake off the area to be measured," Mr. Waggoner added.

The leaflet explains the why, what and how of measurement service, compliance, photographs, certification and spot checks.

Mr. Waggoner said copies of the leaflet have been mailed to farmers participating in ADSB programs. Copies may be obtained by visiting the County ASC Office.

Actually, in recent years, the number of children per family has been far greater than that, 3.18 which accounts for the overall growth in population, 13.5 percent in the last 10 years.

President Nixon has taken note of the rising population pressures and their effect on the quality of daily life by appointing a "Commission on Population Growth and the American Future," with John D. Rockefeller III as chairman.

It does not mean that government is going to tell parents that they can have only one or two children. Rather, it is explained, it will seek to anticipate and deal with growth and migration problems.

Wildlife Phone Survey

The telephone will ring at least once in 3,000 Kentucky households sometime between May 11 and May 27.

If yours is one of those 3,000 phones, don't hang up when the caller, a woman, asks, "Is there a hunter in your household?"

It won't be a prank and there won't be an idiot on the other end of your receiver, either.

The call will simply be a part of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' annual telephone survey, one phase of an effort to determine how much game was harvested by hunters during the past year's hunting season.

If there isn't a "hunter in your household" the caller will thank you and hang up.

Should you answer yes, however, she'll ask you to cooperate with the Department by filling out a brief questionnaire about the number of hunting trips, kinds and numbers of game killed.

The questionnaires will be mailed from the Game Management Division and according to Carl Kaye, wildlife biologist in charge of the project, the information gleaned from them will help biologists in recommending lengths of future seasons and bag and possession limits.

All calls will be made between 5 and 9 p.m.
