Economic Stabilization Questions and Answers

This column of questions and answers on the President's Economic Stabilization Program is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service. The column answers questions most frequently asked about wages and prices.

Q--Do you have any publications that explain the posting requirements for retailers?

A--Yes. IRS Publication S-3, "Retailers' Price Posting Requirements," explains which retailers are and which are not required to post and describes the rules governing accessibility and content of posted information and availability of non-posted prices. It can be obtained free by dropping a postcard to your IRS district office.

Q--I rented a brand new apartment on Nov. 1, 1971 for $200 per month on a month-to-month lease. The construction of the apartments was completed after Aug. 15, 1971. Now my landlord wants to increase rent to $250. Is this a violation of stabilization regulations?

A--Since the construction of the apartment was completed after Aug. 15, 1971 and the unit was offered for rent for the first time after that date, rent for that unit is exempt from controls and an increase does not violate stabilization regulations.

Q--My employer deposited agreed-upon wage increases held up by the freeze in an interest-bearing account until the question of retroactivity was decided by the Pay Board. Now that we're able to receive our retroactive pay, can we also receive the accrued interest on the wages?

A--Yes. Your employer may pay the accrued interest to his employees. The fund is similar to a "forced savings" program and interest in such a program accrues to and is payable to employees. In addition, the cost to the employer is not increased beyond the amount of the retroactive increase.

Q--Is there a booklet available that contains all the regulations issued under the stabilization program?

A--Yes. A new booklet, entitled "Title 6--Economic Stabilization" of the code of Federal Regulations, is a handy reference for all aspects of the stabilization program. In addition to the regulations issued by the Cost of Living Council, the Pay Board and the Price Commission through Feb. 29, 1972, the volume contains implementing regulations and rulings of the Internal Revenue Service.

The booklet can be purchased for 75 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, the Government Printing Office, Washington D.C. 20402, or from the Regional GPO Book Stores located in 10 major cities throughout the country.

Q--Are deposits on soft drink bottles subject to the Economic Stabilization regulations?

A--No. Bottle deposits are not prices. They're amounts exacted to insure the safe return of property. If the property is returned, the full deposit is returned and there is no price paid.

Q--Does the term "allowable cost increase" mean cost increases for a particular product or for the company as a whole?

A--"Allowable cost increase" applies to a particular product or product line. Of course, increased indirect costs for the company as a whole are allocated to each product. The profit margin is the test for the company as a whole. The effect of a manufacturer's price changes must not be to increase its profit margin as a percentage of sales, before income taxes, over that which prevailed during the base period.

Q--Should employers prenotify the IRS before making payment of retroactive pay increases in excess of seven percent for services rendered on or after Aug. 15, 1971 and before Nov. 14, 1971 (Sec. 201.13(b) of the Economic Stabilization regulations)?

A--No. These prenotifications should be sent directly to the Pay Board. If the Pay Board does not act within 14 days of receiving the application, payment may be made.

Q--What is the general pay standard applicable to new labor agreements and, where no labor agreement is in effect, to existing pay practices, permits annual aggregate increases normally considered supportable by productivity improvement and cost of living trends. Initially, this general pay standard is established at 5.5 per cent.

In reviewing new contracts and pay practices, the Pay Board will consider ongoing collective bargaining and pay practices and the equitable position of the employees involved, including the impact of recent changes in the cost of living upon the employees' compensation.

Q--Next month I am scheduled to receive a pay increase higher than 5.5 per cent under the terms of a contract negotiated before Aug. 15. Can I get the increase?

A--Yes. Existing contracts and pay practices previously set forth will be allowed to operate according to their terms, except that specific contracts or pay practices are subject to review, when challenged by a party at Interest (i.e., either labor or management) or by at least five members of the Pay Board, to determine whether any increases in terms reasonably are inconsistent with the Board's criteria.

Q--If a firm has a range of salaries for the same job what wage or salary can be paid to a new employee?

A--The employee may be paid any salary within the range which the qualifications of the employee justify as long as the annual aggregate increase paid by the firm in this job classification does not exceed the 5.5 percent standard set by the Pay Board.

Q--Do firms who are required to prenotify or report their price increases have any protection for trade secrets that might be revealed to the Price Commission?

A--Yes. Under recent amendments to the Economic Stabilization Act of 1970, such information is considered confidential. It may be disclosed only to other Stabilization personnel for the purpose of carrying out the Economic Stabilization Program or when relevant in any proceeding under the Act.

Q--What factors are considered when an exemption from wage-price controls is made?

A--Among the factors considered in making an exemption are:

1) The objectives and requirements of the stabilization program;

2) Whether the economic sector is characterized by a large number of sellers and frequent price fluctuations, with a minimum of inflationary pressure;

3) Whether international transactions are involved or whether, in some special situations such as insurance, domestic firms would be at a disadvantage with respect to international competition because of economic controls on price increases;

4) Whether there is a clear basis for establishing a fair and equitable price because of the nature of the product and the selling process;

5) Whether prices are self-addressed or characterized by a strong element of mutuality;

6) Whether other controls have been established by lawor by other regulatory agencies;

8) Considerations of administration and enforcement, including the ability to effectively enforce the controls in sectors with significant inflationary impact.

WHERE YOU GET PERSONAL ATTENTION

Receives internship

Miss Pamela Gail Gillispie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gillispie, Jacksonwn Road, has received a first appointment dietetic internship to the University of Alabama Medical School located in Birmingham to begin September 1.

This is one of only 600 such internships granted in the United States each year. The Medical School is noted for treatment of heart disease and diabetics.

Miss Gillispie is a senior Therapeutic Dietetic major at Eastern Kentucky University and has maintained a B plus average throughout her four years as a student there.

She has been very active in school affairs being a member of the Honorary Scholastic for Women, a member of the Eastern Marching Maroon and Symphonic Band, serving as president of the Music Club and vice-president of the Foods and Nutrition Club.

She is a graduate of Bourbon County High School, Paris and is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Letcher, Carlisle, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gillispie, Bourbon County.

Groovy Go Getters 4-H Club meets

The president, Damon Booth, called the meeting to order, Greg Baker led the pledge to the American flag and Ricky Hughes led the pledge to the 4-H flag. The minutes were read and approved. Games were then played.

Mrs. Sara Swango gave a talk on 4-H Camp. Slides were shown. She told some of the activities which the people would take part in at camp this summer.

Mrs. Simons made a few announcements. Then the meeting was adjourned.--Jana Snapp, reporter
