

What happened to war savings?

Remember how people used to say, "Just wait until the war in Vietnam starts. We will be able to do so much with the money that will be saved?"

Tax loopholes?

It is almost impossible to listen to a politician without hearing the familiar cries of "tax reform and 'loopholes'." But how many people understand what they build the loopholes? Few, it seems.

free municipalities bond interest. Municipal issue bonds at low interest to finance schools, water purification facilities and sewerage treatment plants. To compensate for the interest, these bonds have no taxes on their interest.

FARM HOODS

Sara Nungesser, Mrs. Margie Wilson

FERTILIZER RUSH CAN BE CHIBBED
In Kentucky each year in the spring planting season. As a result, it has become increasingly difficult for the fertilizer industry to meet customer demands.

(1) Dealers would be in a much better position to provide individual farmers with the kinds and amounts of fertilizer they desire. Custom application services would be improved. In many instances, off-season discounts could be obtained. Other services provided by dealers could be provided more efficiently because the dealers would not be in such a rush.

(2) Much of the fertilizer necessary for spring planting probably already has been applied. This would save valuable time for farmers as they plant crops.

THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1972
During an electrical storm which accompanied a downpour of rain in Carlisle and vicinity Saturday afternoon, lightning struck in three places on the Moorefield road. Lightning struck the porch of the home of George B. Scott Sr. and caused considerable damage. It also hit the house of Kah Hostetter and knocked him down and hit a nearby house owned by Clay Scott which ignited and burned.

AGREE OR NOT

Two-time attorney general, U.S. Democrat nominee for the Sixth District in 1968, Sen. James Watt, died of a heart attack.

Some Bowling Green party leaders have said this could cause Congressman William Blatcher some problems.

Had Watson was quoted from Miami as saying, "It's going to be a tough race in Kentucky, I think I can beat Lou Nunn."

The lack of appeal McGovern has in Kentucky is mirrored by a great reluctance to vote for state elected officials last week.

FRANKFORT - The choice of Senator George McGovern as the Democrat nominee for president has created anxiety and apprehension among rank-and-file party members as well as the leaders.

McGovern's liberalism doesn't mean Water Huddlestone is a Kentucky Democrat and Kentuckians in general.

The effect McGovern will have on the election of U.S. Senators from this state is a problem of an unknown factor, viewed dubious.

From the banks that like to say 'yes!'

There is a difference in loans. Interest rates may vary. There may be a difference in the period of repayment. Sometimes the loan depends on the banker's whims.

At Kentucky Group banks you can always be sure of a loan that is custom-fit to your special needs... at the lowest possible cost.

If we can't save you money on a loan, nobody can.

We have money to help you for any good reason - vacations, home improvement, new automobile, a mobile home, appliances, business needs. Just name it.
