

School year ends

This week, American life will undergo a characteristic seasonal change. The closing of the school year and the beginning of the summer vacation will mark the end of the school year as surely as the passing of the sun across a firm line on the horizon. The end of the school year will be marked by the closing of school, the trek of summer vacationers to their homes, the holding of another annual demonstration of U.S. mobility, the opening of the summer jobs for students will be the beginning of the summer season, a glass step will be taken toward preserving our planet for the wide open spaces, remaining numbers of loaves, camp-

Wish I'd Said THAT

Remember when a pig was set on the windmill to cool rather than the water? The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

Wish I'd said that. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

Wish I'd said that. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

Wish I'd said that. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

Wish I'd said that. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

Wish I'd said that. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig. The water was used to cool the pig.

MERCURY POURS

By Warren R. Fisher
 If the "initials" of a car or truck are not enough, the initials of the driver will be the last thing you see. Perhaps a sign of the times, the initials of the driver will be the last thing you see. Perhaps a sign of the times, the initials of the driver will be the last thing you see.

It is not only the initials of the driver, but the initials of the car. It is not only the initials of the driver, but the initials of the car. It is not only the initials of the driver, but the initials of the car.
