There is nothing so great that I fear to do it for a friend; nothing so small that I will disdain to do it for him.--Philip Sidney

Paul Crouch and his good wife, Mary, came from Lexington to see Paul's aunt, Mrs. Essie Dalzell, and Landen Stewart. They stopped at Millersburg and picked up an old Jacksotown schoolmate of Mrs. Dalzell's, Mrs. Nancy Yarber.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bell was so glad to have her nephew and wife, Wendell Bell of Lexington visit her.

Mrs. Mollie Buckler had several Mt. Olivet visitors Sunday, her son, Warren and his two grandchildren, and her grandson, Robert Buckler. Robert is stationed at Ft. Knox, and is just back from Vietnam.

No wonder Elmer Frederick came in rubbing his stomach Sunday afternoon. He had been out to his daughter, Nancy Shaw's for dinner.

If I had been any kind of a photographer I would have snapped a picture of my little neighbors, Matthew Guthrie, four, and Rob Snapp, three as they played with a water pistol.

Robert Cooper of Middletown, Ohio visited Mrs. Ellen Kenney. He is the husband of her late step-daughter, Lenora Kelney.

Taylor Ring--said--he couldn't tell me any news, for he had been so busy working on the farm.

Mrs. Ethel McCarty said some of her nine children come to see her every night.

Aunt Cora Gaunce's niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Nelson of Indiana visited her lately. Dorothy is a high school teacher, and Boyd is pastor of a big church there. They were on their way to their class reunion.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dampier came from Lexington to see Bill's half uncle, Hurschel Dampier. Mrs. Lacey Dampier (Bessie Purcell) came from Millersburg to see Mr. Dampier. She also visited Herman Conyers and Tony Dotson. She said as a child she remembered visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dotson.

Mrs. Mary Rogers was more than glad to see her granddaughter, Brenda Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Wilson of Stanford visited Emery's aunt, Miss Cordia Bell and Mrs. Ellen Kenney. Mrs. Hatton of Paris visited her Aunt Cordia too.

Mrs. Guy Bell said she missed the visits of her nephew, George Carter. She said since his car accident he hadn't been able to visit her.

Mrs. Lenora George said she was getting so much better; thought she would soon be able to go home.

Gertie Bromagen got to visit the Locust Grove Cemetery on Memorial Day.

Harry and Betty Hardin and John and Lucille Beard of Muncie, Ind., visited Mrs. Maude Stone, Sunday.

Tincy Frederick said her sister, Mayme Pepper, flew in from Texas to visit her.

Just don't know how Henry Thomson would get along without television and his pipe.

Billy Weathers' nephew, Kenneth Campbell from Las Vegas visited her recently. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Campbell.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sugg, Tony's cousin from Paris, visited him. She must have brought the cake.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson and Mrs. Elizabeth French and son of Norwood, Ohio, and Richard Linville of Mt. Olivet visited Oscar Johnson and Mrs. Claudia Wells.

Carlie Huddleston had the pleasure of being at her home on High Street on Sunday. She's really popular.

Do you remember about this time of year, maybe a little later, "way back when" all the country churches had a Children's Day program? The boys had new white shirts and the girls had snow white embroidered dresses, usually trimmed in blue or pink ribbon, and maybe a new hat if the old one wasn't good enough.

Life itself can't give you joy unless you really let it. Life just gives you time and space. It's up to you to fill it.--Cindy Fifer

Shrine announces lecture series

In conjunction with the Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe Vacation Bible School program an evening series of lecture-discussions will be held. The topic of the series is "Who is Jesus Christ?" The lectures will be given by Sister Mary Kevan, S.N.D., one of the Notre Dame Sisters who will teach during VBS. Sister Mary Kevan studied theology for two years at Regina Mundi College in Rome, Italy, and received her Masters Degree of Sacred Theology from Providence College, Providence, Rhode Island. Sister is presently theology coordinator at Notre Dame Academy in Covington.

The Rev. Herman B. Kamlage, Administrator of the Shrine Parish, has invited the public to attend. The lectures will look at Jesus Christ from the various aspects of his personage to provide the listeners with a deeper understanding of the God-Man. The program has been provided for all teenagers and adults, but especially for Sunday School teachers.

The lectures will be held in the Shrine of Our Lady fellowship hall in the basement of the church. The program will be held on Monday and Thursday nights, June 12, 15, 19 and 22.

This group of Nicholas County Elementary School boys and girls were participants in and cheering section for the Special Olympics held Friday, May 26 in Lexington.

The Carlisle Jaycees sponsored nine children from Nicholas County. Mrs. Lottie O'Bannon, Mrs. William Hunter and Mrs. Lovell Knox are pictured with the group.

Environmental workshop held four days at MSU

A group of Morehead State University students have been capturing the environment on film.

Members of an environmental art workshop class taught by Don Young, assistant professor of art, have returned from four days of living with nature and photographing it.

Young's expedition, which set up camp in the Daniel Boone National Forest about 15 miles from Morehead, included 22 students, three Explorer Scouts and two professional photographers as consultants.

The class is being offered during Intersession, MSU's three-week mini-mester".

Young said he tried to choose an area that was isolated but yet fairly accessible. "I wanted a variety of landscapes with wild life and wild flowers," he said.

"We selected a site with no facilities and which was unspoiled by man-made foot paths," the professor added. "Here the group became acquainted with nature and each other and developed a greater sense of perception and awareness".

"The cameras are merely a means of recording the students' feelings and expressions," Young said. "A person who has lived a while in the woods with his camera is more involved in his work than someone who is a stranger to nature."

All of the students, including four coeds, said they enjoyed the outing. The class consisted of juniors, seniors and graduate students.

Barbie Casper of Morehead said she couldn't use a camera before taking the course. An art student at UK, she said she liked spending a few days "roughing it" with nature.

"It is so much more pleasant to experience nature with a group rather than alone," said Elmer Klaber, Covington junior at MSU. "The best way to enjoy nature is to live in it."

Eddie Horton, Danville junior, recorded the sounds of the forest as well as the sights. "I have some great recordings of whippoorwills and frogs," he said.
