VD most widespread communicable disease in country today

You may have VD, second only to the common cold, venereal disease is the most widespread communicable disease in the country today. It is estimated that 10 million people have VD. It is a national scourge since its beginning. It has long been identified with promiscuity, uncleanliness, and immorality. And even today with the increase in sexual freedom, these attitudes are still prevailing among people from reporting their symptoms.

Our Teacher

Why does this exciting activity people rush to their doctors for answers, sniffles and coughs, yet hesitate at the thought of reporting symptoms of venereal disease? Many people apparently don't know that their cases are kept confidential by physicians and public health agencies. The alarming symptoms of VD may be another factor explaining why the small number of cases reported. Their appearance may be slight that their victim will often assign little or no importance to the disease. A discharge of pus or irritation often appear, although they are harmless. The gonorrhea organisms (gonococci) are usually localized in or near the urethra or rectum. Complications of the disease may be serious, such as arthritis, arthritis. Women may also suffer from gonorrhea, which is often abdominal infection. Gonorrhea can be cured with penicillin. Treatment should be early and under proper medical supervision.
