

Millions of turkeys near end of their short, tense lives

Turkeys are nervous all year round, not just during the holiday season. In fact, the big birds are nervous into a slazy jazy by someone getting their cage door. And a really big shock—a paper fluttering in the wind—may cause them to dash vertically to a corner of the pen and pile up in a fatal crash.

But enough turkeys have survived the real and imagined hazards of their brief lives—21 weeks on the average—to make 1952 a record year, the National Geographic Society says. The Department of Agriculture estimates production this year at 120 million birds, up seven percent from 1951. Minnesota, California, and North Carolina are the leading producers.

Now is the time to start thinking and actually doing something about Christmas baking. It is later than you think it is not too early to bake fruit cakes or pecan cakes. In fact they improve with ripening and a bit of resting for several weeks. So before you feel completely bogged down with all the extra work of the holidays and entertaining, get some of that baking done.

will not rise to top of pan but will make nice size slices of cake. Bake 1/2 hour at 300 degrees, then 2 1/2 hours at 275 degrees. Test for doneness. Do not over cook or you will have a dry cake.

PECAN CAKE—ONE THIRD SIZE CAKE

1 tablespoon milk, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1 egg white sugar, 1/2 pound butter, 2 eggs, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup walnuts, 1/2 cup plus teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder. Proceed as above. Preparing pan, etc. This will bake in a small 2 1/2 pan and is very nice for gift giving. Bake at 300 degrees in covered pan for two hours.

PECAN CAKE—TWO THIRD SIZE

1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup white sugar, 2 cups flour, 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup walnuts, 1/2 cup plus teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder. Proceed as above. Preparing pan, etc. This will bake in a small 2 1/2 pan and is very nice for gift giving. Bake at 300 degrees in covered pan for two hours.

WOMEN'S BREAD FRUIT CAKE

This cake is buttery delicate. It keeps well and improves with age. 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup white sugar, 2 cups flour, 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup walnuts, 1/2 cup plus teaspoon nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder. Proceed as above. Preparing pan, etc. This will bake in a small 2 1/2 pan and is very nice for gift giving. Bake at 300 degrees in covered pan for two hours.

Beautiful Red Dapple. The lot of a turkey given in a happy one. An experienced and exasperated farmer explained why: "Turkeys are beautiful to look at, fragile as an orchid, and stupid beyond belief."

WOMAN'S WORLD

Natural cosmetics—to supplement your skin-toughness—can be used at home. Use your homemade masticaropes to personalize your dressing table, package as Christmas gifts, will hit church and club bazaars. Ingredients are obtainable at supermarkets and pharmacies. Here's a similarity between the problems of an overweight person with dieting and an alcoholic with drinking. Good food and water surround society. The overweight person who attends meetings (like Wright Washburn) and does well will maintain his weight by attending maintenance meetings—perhaps for a lifetime. If you wish to be successful in your fight against alcohol, you should consider drinking A.A. and this time never quit—never!

MEDICINE CHEST

I am 63 years old alcoholic. I have joined A.A. twice, but I'm not there. I have been four months sober for a long time, but I'm afraid it won't last much longer. What do you suggest? M.J.L.

Female turkeys never have learned to swim like they egg. Unlike a chicken hen they stand upright, letting the eggs drop an average of 10 inches. The breakage problem is tremendous. One tolerant man, who has raised turkeys for 40 years, claims they sometimes show intelligence. "The ones they get into single file, surround a snake, and pick it to death," he said.
