Our readers speak... Editor, The Carlisle Mercury... I want you to know my deep personal gratitude to you for your article in the Golden Anniversary Supplement... A matched pair of appreciation and interest... No matter how these two are used, they are invariably "seasoned to the taste" of every reader.

MERCURY

Warren R. Fisher

This column was a miss the writer was accused of giving the readers a "know job" last week by none other than one of the greatest experts in the editing arts, namely the lord that writes the Field Ticker... My only excuse was that someone somewhere would understand what "Flip-flop" were about, even if the words were not in dense darkness... We do go out and try to hustle, we might be on the job in the office... If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius... We do, the paper is filled with junk... We are too critical, and if we don't see articles!

A PUBLISHER'S JOY

Getting out this paper is no picnic... If we print jokes, people will say we are silly... If we don't say we are too serious... We are too busy to write it down ourselves

I Say What I Think by S. C. VanCuren

PLANKFORD—The unfavorable public created by the alumni and faculty effort to give Morehead State University President Edman a new Challenge as part of the Golden Anniversary observances appears as a well-meaning gesture that turned sour before being delivered — they seem to miss it much in this world.

University for the first time, may have had an opportunity to remember the pleasant days spent on the campus and many had an opportunity to see new stories in papers across the state and triggered a mental comment.

At its best, the gesture was ill conceived although it may have been well intentioned.

Probably you won't be able to check off every item on this list on your first shopping tour. But do keep trying, for this is a list that lasts a lifetime.

Editor, The Carlisle Mercury: Enclosed is $2.75 for our new subscription to the Mercury. I'll keep us in the great of this outstanding

Mr. Gayle Vanlandingham

Back in the days before indoor plumbing, foodstuffs and fancy soaps, you could always tell the oldest boy in the family. He was the oldest.

That's because he was, by birthright, the man of the first water.

One Sunday night — in warm weather — and a big bathtub of water was drawn. The oldest boy came and washed up in a pile of fresh wood. Then the next of age, and the youngest, and the oldest, and the second boy had come and washed up in a pile of fresh water.

By the time the tub had had three or four washings, it was full of suds.

Stranger people in the world in this country than in any other people, but I believe they will be a happy and successful people if they are treated as such.

Consider how much work it would be to wash and gather a pile of grass three feet high and six feet wide, if you had to do that in eight hours with only a 3 foot wide tub.

And what if, in addition to that, you had to turn out of that grass into milk?
