Busy days-kindergarten

Some of the Carlisle Kindergarten pupils dress-up for a Halloween party. The kindergarten is held in the basement of the Nicholas County Library.

October and November have been so full of interesting things to learn and do in kindergarten. The girls and boys made soap boats on Columbus Day, celebrated Halloween with a costume party and saw films about witches and pumpkins.

Veterans Day was observed with a parade in paper hats and waving of "Old Glory". One day a new puppy visited the classroom, much to the delight of all.

During November the children painted macaroni and made Indian beads. Turkeys, Pilgrims and Indians have been much on the scene this month. One day the children pretended to observe a Thanksgiving feast, giving thanks for many different things while gathered in a circle wearing Indian head bands and Pilgrim hats. Popcorn was popped and along with koolaid-and cookies made a great time for all. A film about Thanksgiving helped the children to understand even better about this thankful time of the year. Kindergarten is sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Guns and Children

While preparing for a hunting trip, Hodges left his loaded rifle propped against the wall in the living room. His 11-year-old son carried the gun outside, showed it to a friend, and accidentally fired a bullet into the other boy's leg.

In short order, Hodges found himself facing a sizeable damange suit. At the trial, he protested that he had never given his son permission to handle the rifle.

But the court held him liable anyhow. The court said he was guilty of negligence for leaving a dangerous weapon so easily accessible to a youngster.

Today, more than half of the nation's households have guns. Consequently, the chances of parental liability are at an all-time high. The law lays a heavy responsibility on adults to keep firearms out of immature hands.

In fact, many courts have been just as strict about BB guns, partly because they too can inflict injury, and partly because they may be restricted by a local ordinance.

However, the less the danger the less the responsibility. On this ground, an injury caused by a child's bow and arrow was held not attributable to his parents. And in another case, parents were held not liable for their son's carelessness with a sling shot—a common plaything in the neighborhood.

An 11-year-old boy picked up an old golf club which his father had left lying on the grass in their back yard. The boy swung at a pebble, but instead struck a playmate in the jaw.

Clearly, the club had been turned into a dangerous weapon on this particular occasion. But a court ruled that, the father could not be blamed, since a golf club would not ordinarily fall that rule.

It was the kind of misuse, said the court, that the father could not fairly be expected to forsee.

Child shortage slowing adoptions

A few years ago, a Kentucky couple wishing to adopt a child had little trouble in doing so.

But things have changed.

Today an adoptive couple in Kentucky may wait one or two years to receive a child, if indeed they ever receive one.

Adoption workers in the state Department of Child Welfare say the turn about started five years ago when adoption became more socially popular and the number of people desiring to adopt began rising, at least partially because of the influence of groups urging families to have only two natural children, and a corresponding rise in the number of men having vasectomies.

Then, about three years ago, the number of children available to be placed for adoption began declining, due to more effective means of contraception and the availablity of legal abortions as well as the lessening of the stigma against single mothers who decide to keep their babies.

The result, obviously, is too many homes and not enough kids. Last year, for instance, Child Welfare finalized adoption of 566 children. This year, however, the department already has 634 approved homes waiting for a child, 250 homes under study to determine if they are suitable for adoption and 1000 homes waiting for a study.

Even with this overabundance of homes though, the department placed 57 children out-of-state last year through referral agencies.

Why the discrepancy?

Well, most people wishing to adopt want the same kind of child--a white infant. The older a child is, the harder he is to place. A handicapped, retarded, biracial or black is also considered hard to place.

Although many families are willing to adopt a "hard-to-place" child--Sue Howard, Child Welfare's adoption specialist, said 16 to 20 percent of approved adoptive applicants have indicated they would be willing to adopt such a child--some hard-to-place children are harder to place than others.

Mrs. Howard said a severely retarded child is almost impossible to place. Black children present a particular problem since few whites want to adopt a black in Kentucky, and there are just not enough black families known to the agency who are willing to adopt.

Tom Massie, director of Child Welfare's community services division, isn't pleased with the situation because he feels the department has been lax in recruiting black homes, primarily because adoption workers have such a heavy caseload just keeping up with those who have asked to have their homes approved for adoption.

MEDICINE CHEST

by H. BOSWELL YORK, R. PH.

"I need information for cough medicines which do not raise the blood pressure or increase heart rate. -- Mrs. C.D.R.

There are some. If the cough medicine does NOT contain an antihistamine or a decongestant, chances are it's safe. For example: Terpin Hydrate Elixir, Robitussin (Plain, A.C. or D.M.) or Cheracol and Cheracol D do not contain these chemicals. P.S. Their formulas indicate that they are also low in salt -- an extra plus for you!

What is the difference between natural foods which are sold in health stores and regular foods? -- M.M.

Natural foods are completely free of additives, preservatives, emulsifiers and coloring agents. Moreover, they have never been subjected to insecticide sprays. Some examples are: unbleached flour, unpolished rice, raw sugar, fertile eggs, raw certified milk.

Can I deduct transportation costs as a medical expense? -- M.T.

Yes. You may deduct bus, taxi, train, or plane fares, or ambulance fees. You may also deduct a standard mileage rate of 6 cents for each mile you use your car for medical purposes. There are pages designed for recording such mileage in the Medical Expense Record Book for 1973. Send $1 plus two 8-cent stamps to me, in care of this newspaper. Shipment will be made by the end of the year.

What is a "fruit cocktail"? -- C.H.

"Fruit cocktail" means a mixture of various tablets and capsules in one bowl. The bowl is passed around among a group of drug abusers, and each swallow a handful. The results are often fatal! In order to prevent your medicine from becoming part of a "fruit salad," you should (1) keep only the medicine you need and (2) safely secure them.

Send your questions concerning drugs and prescriptions to Medicine Chest, in care of this newspaper.

MAGICWORD by JULIE QUART

HOW TO PLAY: Read the list of words. Look at the puzzle. You'll find these words in all directions -- horizontally, vertically, diagonally, backwards. Draw a circle around each letter of a word found in the puzzle then strike it off list. Circling it will show a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. Find the big words first. When letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over. They'll spell out your MAGICWORD.

THE HOME GAME

by MARY FUREY CRYMES

FROZEN ANGEL -- If there's time, freeze an angel cake overnight before using. Makes perfect slices with nary a crumble if you cut when slightly thawed.

SPICY NICETY -- Save some attractive bottles and start making your own herb vinegars for Christmas giving. You can mix kinds of vinegars -- white or red wine, cider, malt, white and/or distilled. Blend herbs of your choosing: dried basil, tarragon, thyme, dill, garlic, marjoram or mint. Let the herbs steep in the vinegar at least three weeks, strain and bottle and label. Nice gift for the salad-loving hostess, too -- and a seller at bazaars.

CRACKING GOOD IDEA -- Keep a small nutcracker in the dressing table drawer. Helps open recalcitrant tops on nail polish bottles and extract the last bit of makeup from plastic tubes.

PATCHING MATCHING -- It's possible, but not easy, to repair furniture damaged in one or two places by spilled nail polish, perfume or other strong solutions. First, rub edges of spots lightly with fine sandpaper to taper into unharmed areas. Select a varnish to match as closely as possible the wood shade. Brush varnish on, let dry, then apply thin coats of shellac to build up thickness and blend the newly refinished spot with other wood.

GOLDEN HARVEST -- Garner pumpkins for delicious amber marmalade. Peel, seed and cut fresh pumpkins into chunks. Mix a pound of pumpkin with a pound of sugar and add a fourth cup of lemon juice for tang. Toss in a couple of pieces of crystallized ginger and cook the mixture til it's clear and sheets from a spoon. Place in heated jars and seal with paraffin. Lovely holiday gift.

IS YOUR WASH A WASHOUT? -- For everything you've always wanted to know about successful home laundering, send for our free booklet. Mail a postcard request with your name and address to: The Home Game, care of this newspaper.
