guide drawn up by the Department of Education. This survey will hopefully reflect the attitudes of citizens in several aspects of education including instruction, financing, school district organization, personnel, and buildings and transportation.

Upon completion of the study guide, local study groups will continue to review school financial programs. They will work with school officials and make suggestions for a recommended education program, its costs and financing, to a 100-member Citizens Advisory Council headed by Allen R. Bryan, news director, WKLO Radio in Louisville. This Council reports to the Department of Education. When the study of the Foundation Program is completed next year, findings will be disseminated state-wide. These efforts could result in "significant changes in legislation affecting education," sources said. Citizens interested in participating in this study may contact the office of local school superintendents.

Of course you expect a range to heat food and a refrigerator to keep it cool. But do you know that basic home appliances can perform other duties as well? To help you get the most from your appliances, General Electric's Consumer Institute has the following suggestions:

* If your automatic dishwasher doesn't have a "plate warmer" setting you can get the same result by advancing the cycle selector just the washcycles to the dry portion of the cycle.

* For a cup of coffee the first thing in the morning, use the timed setting on your range. Plug the coffee-maker in at night and set timer for your AM coffee.

* If you have a large food freezer, try freezing meals and poultry in meal-size packages. Then you won't have to thaw more than you need. Once you thaw meat, it should never be refrozen, but you can cook it, and then freeze it for use at a later date.

* Tumbling the wrinkles out of garments by placing them in the no-heat fluff setting of a dryer. Saves time and professional pressing costs.

* To keep your waste disposer sanitary and its cutting blades sharp, feed it an occasional tray of ice cubes. Bones will do the trick, too, unless a canine companion has first priority.
