Top Kentucky FFA members sought in annual contest

The 1972 Future Farmers of America Contest, sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, is underway throughout Kentucky, and $1,400 in U.S. Savings Bonds awarded the top winners.

The annual contest, designed to recognize outstanding achievement by Kentucky FFA members, is a public service of the two Louisville daily newspapers and is conducted in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education's Division of Vocational Agriculture.

The FFA member named state champion in the contest will receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond. Nine district runners-up will each receive a $100 savings bond.

The 10 winners, their parents and FFA advisors will be guests of honor at the newspapers' annual Farm Awards Luncheon in Louisville next February. The winners will receive their awards at the luncheon.

Each FFA chapter in Kentucky is to choose its top member in the contest. Each chapter winner will receive a wooden plaque symbolic of his achievement. Chapters with 100 per cent member participation will receive special recognition certificates.

The deadline for entering the competition is Nov. 1, 1972. FFA members may obtain contest brochures and entry forms from their vocational agriculture teachers, all of whom in Kentucky have been sent the materials.

The 1971 state champion in the contest was Tommy Hardesty of Brandenburg. Later he was named the state star farmer by the statewide FFA federation.

The Central Kentucky Blood Center will be at the Carlisle Baptist Church on Nov. 2 to draw blood for the Nicholas County Donors Club.

The donor club, sponsored by the Carlisle Jaycees in association with the Nicholas County Hospital, has been very successful in providing blood for Nicholas county residents. Club members who
