25 persons respond to Sickle cell test

A Sickle Cell anemia testing program was held by the Nicholas County Health Department on July 18. 25 people were tested at that time.

Sickle cell disease is an inherited form of anemia (a shortage of red blood cells) which starts in infancy and remains through life.

In this country, sickle cell occurs primarily in members of the black race. About one out of every 500 black babies is born with the disease, sickle cell anemia.

About one out of every 10 blacks carries the trait.

Every black has the right to know whether he has the trait or not, and the right to know what the facts are about sickle cell. Before it was possible to test for the trait, most people found out they were carrying the trait only after they had a child with the disease.

As yet, there is no cure for sickle cell disease. Research is being done to find a cure and better treatment for patients with the disease.

Until a cure is found, the best way to prevent sickle cell disease is by having a test, then it can be determined if the trait is present.

All members of the black community who have not been tested are urged to come to the Nicholas County Health Center on any Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday afternoon for testing and further information.
