Veterans Administration news

Kentucky Vietnam-Era veterans taking training under the GI Bill were 11% under the national average, according to a report issued July 26 by the Veterans Administration.

The national average was 46.1% while Kentucky veterans under the GI Bill was 34.9%. Of the 50 states, Arizona has the highest participation by veterans in the GI Bill training with 57.8%. The District of Columbia veterans reached 54%.

In Kentucky the report shows that out of 47,000 Vietnam Era veterans, 30,236 have taken some form of training in the 30 months the present GI Bill has been available.

Of these, 16.4% enrolled in colleges; 15.9% were in below-college training; 3% were taking on-job training programs; and 5.1% were involved in correspondence courses.

Of the 15,440,000 World War II eligible veterans, 7,453,971 (49.3%) took advantage of the GI Bill training in some form. Of the 5,443,000 Korean Conflict veterans, 2,280,412 (41.9%) took training. Counting all veterans who have served since Korea (Post-Korean and Vietnam) there are 8,580,000 veterans. Of these, 3,971,217 or 46.4% have taken training. Veterans serving between Feb. 1, 1955 and Aug. 4, 1964, total 3,106,000. The remaining 4,474,000 are Vietnam Era veterans and to date, 2,387,967 veterans and servicemen have taken training. This amounts to 53.8%.

FFA competes in Blue Grass Fair

The Nicholas County Chapter of Future Farmers of America was represented at the Blue Grass Fair. They participated in Livestock Judging, Tractor Driving, Dairy Cattle Judging, Seed Identification and Miss Blue Grass Fair.

The chapter competed against other chapters in the Central Kentucky area. The purpose of the contest was to gain knowledge in agriculture and to gain experience toward completion in the Kentucky State Fair.

Accompanying the boys in the contests was their advisor, Jim Bourgeois.

man in his 70s is in better condition to undergo surgery than a 40-year-old. However, we must be realistic and honest when we make a diagnosis and recommend surgery. There are several factors that we must consider. First, how is the patient's heart, blood vessels, kidneys, and blood pressure? Is there any kidney infection? How is his general physical status? These questions are more important than asking the patient "How old are you?" There are several types of prostate surgery. In Prostate operations have been successful in patients in their 80s and 90s.

SAUCEY - It's annoying when a perfectly good white sauce comes when you add egg yolks. This is because temperatures are uneven. To solve the problem, beat the yolks and add enough of the sauce to the hot eggs. Then combine with remaining sauce. Veal, smooth sauce very.

BABY CRIES - Cover baby's bassinets mattress pad before getting into bed. You'll save money by not having to buy special sheets. Risk you can always use the cases later when the bassinets are outgrown.

CHEEK CUT UP - You can use a whole box of cake mix when you're baking just for two. Bake in two regular sized pans, freeze one and stack one half stop the other. Lift and frost. Cover the outside with icing, too.

WAX WONDER - When applying your attractive janes and jellies with paraffin, make removal easy on yourself or the recipient of the goodies. Layer on a thin topping. Leave an edge, pore wax to cover thread. When dry, you can lift out the wax by the thin layer.

BIRTHDAY BOXES - Got a kid's birthday party ahead? Round up all the shoe boxes you can find, and wrap and decorate one for each child. Fill with the lunch label books and serve picnic style. Kids love it, and it beats setting a fancy birthday table.

DEAF WINKERS - When the dinner is barbeque, let nature help you with the cleanup work. Lay the meaty chunks on the grass and the dew will do its thing. Next morning, a quick sweep will leave the grill white.

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

While I have been back to Kentucky about a dozen times since taking office in January, the current Congressional recess has given me the first opportunity for an extended stay in Kentucky. We are taking advantage of the recess to visit many of our friends in Elizabethtown and throughout the state.

My first week back was a busy one, beginning with an urban affairs hearing all day on Louisville on Thursday, followed by a full day of activities in Louisville on Friday. On Saturday I was privileged to introduce Senator Hubert Humphrey at the national meeting of the Young Democrats Club in Louisville.

As I remarked to some of my friends, I felt like I was back on the campaign trail - what with the night speeches and the constant traveling. But I have enjoyed it, and it gave me a chance to renew a lot of old friendships. I hope to spend a couple of weeks longer before heading back to Washington to what I know will be an extremely busy schedule. We have a lot of legislation that needs attention, and my constituents are looking to me for leadership.

The Congressional recess is also invaluable in another respect. It gives me a chance to talk at length with Kentuckians and get first hand their views on various issues. I have discovered that Washington can become a very parochial place and Congressional constituents can lose touch with his constituents if he is not careful, and if he fails to make regular trips back home.

Congressmen are always in the mail - and we get plenty of it. In an average week we will get about 600 letters from people in Kentucky, covering a wide range of issues and problems.

I take a look at almost every letter that comes in from Kentucky. In fact, that is at night. You might be surprised to know the mail has much top priority in my office - but it does, and I hope each of you will be able to write me at any time during the first seven months. Sometimes it is impossible to answer every letter we have, but I hope that I can continue making as many trips back to the state as I have during the first seven months. Sometimes it is impossible to answer every letter we have, but I hope that I can continue making as many trips back to the state as I have during the first seven months, even if I have to miss some things in Washington.
