June 21 Nicholas Dairy Day

This is June Dairy month in Kentucky. June Dairy Day activities for Nicholas County will be June 21, 9 p.m. at Bluegrass Industries.

Few individuals are responding to the Mr. Moo contest. Read the clues in the paper carefully. The first individual who guesses Mr. Moo is going to receive a $25 savings bond. A second place prize will be given, too. Mail your entry in to Mr. Moo Contest. You may be the lucky person.

MOO CLUE?

The last name of Mr. Moo Moo's in-laws is pronounced in three syllables, the last of which is the same as what the male hippie has a lot of.

The American Dairy auxiliary will again present $100 to the Ministerial Association for the use of the Nicholas County churches in their Vacation Bible Schools. Each church who wishes to participate in the program should serve milk or a milk product one day to boys and girls attending VBS. The director of each Vacation Bible School should make available a copy of the bill for the refreshments purchased to Rev. Neil Thompson, treasurer of the Ministerial Association. Mail the bill within 10 days after the close of VBS. The account will be either paid to the director of the school, or to the store that supplies the milk product refreshments. Mrs. Edgar Scott, Chairman of the committee, feels that this gift should make available a 10 cent milk product refreshment for every boy and girl enrolled in VBS in Nicholas County this year.

There is a cake bake contest planned. Either Mrs. John Bromagen, Mrs. Boon Clark and Mrs. Willie Taylor would like to know if you plan to bake a white or yellow butter cake and/or a jam cake. After the cakes are judged, they will be served as a dessert to those attending June Dairy Day. The one requirement is that they be made from dairy products. Prizes will be given to first and second place winners in each of the two classes. (Jam and white or yellow cake.)

All talent participants will provide special entertainment for those attending.

Fiscal court reports on Revenue Sharing

Under the Federal Revenue Sharing Act it is required that the Nicholas County Fiscal Court keep the citizens of Nicholas County informed about these funds which are allocated to the county. We have previously advised the public that the first money received would be spent on the purchase of capital equipment, a building for the operation of a sanitary land fill on the Nicholas County Farm. This has been accomplished. Subsequently, the Court made an additional purchase of more capital equipment, a flame mower, which has been in operation more than three months and the results of cleaning the rights of way on many county roads is now becoming self-evident.

Under Entitlement No. 3 of the Revenue

June Dairy Day, Margaret Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Duncan and Gayle Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Myers, will be performing. Local businesses will provide a number of gifts for the door prize drawings. In addition to the games which provide a lot of laughter for those watching, there will be a Prince and Princess Contest. The highlight of the program will be the crowning of the Nicholas County Dairy Princess by the 1972 Nicholas County winner. Guest of honor will be the 1972 Kentucky Dairy Princess, Sherry Eitel, Christian County.

Sharing Act from Jan. 1, 1973, to June 30, 1973, we have an allocation of funds in the amount of $29,479.00 and we will have an additional allocation of funds in the amount of $43,968.00 for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1973, and ending June 30, 1974. These funds have been allocated and the planned use thereof for the purchase of capital equipment, namely a Gallon Motor grader, a Rough payloader, and at least three trucks to replace used and worn out trucks at the Nicholas County Road Department.

A copy of Planned Use Report of Entitlement No. 3 is published as part of this report to the public. Floyd Clark, Judge, Nicholas County, Kentucky.

Call me Schwann

make one decent livelihood. So in the late thirties William Schwann opened a small record shop in Cambridge, near M.I.T. When the long-playing record revolutionized the recording industry in 1949, Schwann, besieged by his customers' inquiries on new releases, typed out list of new recordings. Schwann's Open 1 was a firm little 28-page affair showing 61 LP's issued by 11 companies. It was given away free to customers and soon other Boston dealers started asking for copies of Schwann's catalogue. The rest of the story you can reconstruct.

In five years Schwann decided that he could do a better job on his catalogue by an office building on Boston's fashionable Newbury Street and fittingly overlook the Charles River and the harbor. There is an art of related efficiency that Swan, as you might expect where the boss is known as Bill by his staff of eight.

Bill Schwann himself prefers a classical-and jazz-laden, New Yorkers and Chicago. He is active on the boards of several musical organizations, among them the Marlboro School of Music, the Long School of Music in Cambridge, the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra, the Cambridge Society for Early Music, the Boston Ballet, and the Handel and Haydn Society, the oldest continuing choral organization in the country.

But that's only the beginning. Where else, outside of the multivolume Grove's Dictionary, can you find such a complete listing of composers and their dates—from Alamo (1673-1742) to Zimmermann (1728-1803)? A ready reference of opus numbers and Koebel listings? A list of Western music? Capsule notices on recent books in music? And, for those shoppers who love to know how much money they're really saving, at the discount record shops, an alphabetical compendium of manufacturers' list prices.

The offices of the Schwann Publishing Company are located on the top floor of an office building on Boston's fashionable Newbury Street and fittingly overlook the Charles River and the harbor. There is an art of related efficiency that Swan, as you might expect where the boss is known as Bill by his staff of eight.

FARMERS ASKED

To report fuel shortages

To help assure that farmers do not run short of fuel this season, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is asking farmers to report any shortages of fuel to local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Offices, and use fuel conserving methods with tractors, trucks, and other machine-driven equipment. Since February the Department has been monitoring the farm fuel supply situation through its more than 2,800 ASCS County Offices. Shortages are reported immediately through State ASCS Offices to Washington where a regular farm fuel situation report is prepared for the Secretary of Agriculture every Wednesday.

Any problems that arise are forwarded immediately to the Office of Oil and Gas, U. S. Department of the Interior, for solution under the voluntary allocation program. William E. Simon, chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee and Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, has pointed out that farmers and the food industry have priority in getting petroleum products.

ASCS said some suppliers have not been able to meet farm customers' needs fully. Officials said this is partly because independent and cooperative fuel producers and marketers have not been able to obtain enough supplies.

USDA has been working with the Departments of Treasury and Interior to encourage farm fuel conservation practices. They recommend that farmers use minimum tillage practices and that they keep their tractors tuned.

Public hearings will be held June 11-13 in Washington by the Treasury Department to see how the voluntary crude oil and product allocation program is working. The ASCS Office will forward to the local media any information pertinent to the fuel crisis as it is received.

Cornelius named NCH principal

Huey L. Cornelius, Nicholas County Elementary teacher, will assume the position of principal at Nicholas County High School for the 1973-74 school year. Cornelius received a Bachelor of Science degree from Cumberland College, a Master of Arts degree from the University of Kentucky and has done further graduate study at Eastern Kentucky University, University of Kentucky and Ohio State University. Cornelius has taught 11 years, seven of those in the high school and the remainder in junior high. During that time he has served as class sponsor, chaperoned senior trips, served as faculty advisor for science, math, and thespian clubs. One year he served as head teacher of an elementary school. In addition he has written a consumer mathematics program that was adopted and is now being used. He has been chairman of several community clubs, honor roll, textbook, etc. After organizing an audio-visual club, he served as the adviser.

In the sports field, he has organized golf, track, and junior high basketball. He has served as head basketball coach, head track coach, and assistant varsity football coach. This past year he taught eighth grade social studies, coached the freshman football team and the girls track team. He is a member of the First Baptist Church and resides on Upper Jackson Road. His wife, Margerie, is a former teacher, holding a B. S. from Ohio State University and a M. A. from the University of Kentucky. They have two children, Clark McClain, age 3 and Beth Ann, age 1 1/2.

Roxann Bow to represent county at Ky. Girls State

Miss Roxanne Bow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bow, has been selected by the faculty of the Nicholas County High School to represent Nicholas county at Kentucky Girls State, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The weeklong exercise in democracy will be held at Morehead State University June 11-16. More than 200 high school coeds are expected to participate in the 27th annual Kentucky Girls State.

Miss Bow, a senior at Nicholas County High School is an honor student. She is treasurer of the Drama Club, assistant treasurer of Future Homemakers of America, song leader of the Honor Society, and a member of the Pep Club, 4-H and AHS.

Each delegate will become a citizen of a mythical 51st state. Elections will be held to select officials on all levels of government and will culminate in the election of a Kentucky Girls State governor. The delegates will be representatives of senators in the Kentucky Girls State Assembly and will travel to Frankfort to operate their government.

Survey notes 26% of local income is from government sources

NEW YORK—To what extent do government dollars—Federal, state and local—figure in the financial affairs of Nicholas County residents?

What proportion of the local population receives some or all of its income from such sources? With public payments on the rise and social security and other benefits expanding, government funds have become increasingly important.

Based upon a state-by-state analysis of data released by the U.S. Office of Business Economics, about 25.9 percent of Nicholas County's personal income locally is from public funds. It amounts to approximately $4,940,000 a year, after taxes.

Based upon the analysis, which was made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization here, were payments of wages and salaries to people on government payrolls, the amounts going to those who are receiving social security benefits and the outlays for unemployment compensation, pensions, interest and public assistance.

In the case of Nicholas County, a whole, 24.3 cents of every dollar of personal income comes in the form of government checks, the Tax Foundation finds. In the East South Central States the average is 26.5 cents.

Nationally, the total amount paid out to individuals during the year by governmental bodies, via payrolls, pensions and the like, came to $209 billion.

Of this sum, nearly $122 billion was from Washington and the other $87 billion from state and local governments. Considerable differences are noted between various sections of the country in the extent to which government funds contribute to personal income.

It runs high in areas that have heavy concentrations of civil employees and in areas with large proportions of retired people receiving pensions.

In the District of Columbia, consequently, because of the large number of Federal workers there, no less than 51.4 percent of income is from public funds, Connecticut, with 38.3 percent, is at the other extreme.

MSU degrees

Morehead State University recently awarded degrees to 960 persons at spring commencement, including seven from Nicholas County.

Nicholas county graduates include: Margie P. Booth, Ab Joseph P. Hayes, BBA; Charles T. McCallie, AME; and Mike T. O'Hannon, BS, Carlisle; Bruce W. Barnes, BS, Pamela J. Bassett, BS, and Harold W. Capps, AB, Morefield.
