Senator Dee Haddock

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY: This is the time of year when young people throughout Kentucky and the country graduate from high schools and begin preparing themselves for further education or some occupation. I would like to address this column to these young people.

I have a lot of confidence in the young people of today. I respect their knowledge and ability, and I feel they are as well prepared to meet the challenges of the future as any who have preceded them. I do not subscribe to the notion that today's young people are somehow inferior to other generations.

They may be anxious. You may be concerned about the kind of world you are stepping into into-uncanny, our continuing difficulties in Indonesia, the Middle East, the weakening of the dollar, the energy crisis, and the seeming inability of man to provide for his needs without destruction of the earth's environment.

I do wish we made quite a mess out of things, and you might feel that we ought to postpone for permitting those who are responsible for our future. I'm sure you do not regret that the earth is not perfect, but that it is a gift to us. Your natural energies, which are not learned in live together in peace and prosperity.

We have many shortcomings in our society, and perhaps today's young people are stepping into a world of political expansion, illegal activities, and corruption. But these ill-effects also remain to gain of the nations learned long ago, that truth will win out, that right will prevail, and that punishment for wrongdoing is always inescapable.

It is our society there is a Senator Sam Ervin to put principle above expediency and to give the people an opportunity to correct the mistakes of a free government. It is our duty to be crystal about the current disclosures of misconduct by high officials. It is my hope to realize that what the politician professes to do is what he really does. It is not the way that will be used by the confidence and good will of people. It is not the way that will succeed in politics and in government.

It is my hope that we will have a better government in the future. It is my hope that we will have a better society. It is my hope that we will have a better world. It is my hope that we will have a better life. It is my hope that we will have a better future.
