Youth fatally injured in tractor accident

A 16-year-old youth was injured fatally about 3 p.m. Monday when he was thrown from a tractor while working in a field on a farm in the county. Coroner Ralph Shearer said Larry Wayne Fryman, son of Everett Fryman, died instantly of a fractured skull. Shearer said the boy, operating a tractor with a "brush hog" attachment, apparently drove over a hole in the field as he was cutting weeds, and he was thrown off the machine. A brother, David Fryman, Millersburg, who was working in the field with the youth, said he had left the scene a moment before the accident and had gone to a nearby tree for water. He said he told Shearer he heard a scream and that when he returned to the tractor found his brother lying dead nearby. Survivors are another brother, Sammy Fryman, Nicholas county, and the paternal grandfather, Sam Fryman, also of Nicholas county.

Wheat allotment deadline July 5

Farmers still wishing to apply for a new wheat allotment should contact their ASCS County Office as soon as possible. Eugene Letcher, chairman, Nicholas County ASCS Committee said today. Applications for new allotments may be filed until July 5. At last year, a producer eligible to file an application is one with a farm for which no wheat allotment has been established and for which neither the owner nor the operator has an interest in a wheat allotment on any other farm. Other factors are also involved and it is suggested that interested producers come to the ASCS Office for complete details.

State dairy princess warns of milk shortage

A beautiful, blue-eyed blond, with a trim figure and peaches and cream complexion that speak well for dairy products, is carrying the milk pail for the dairy industry this year. Kentucky's State Dairy Princess is Miss Sherry Ezell, Route 1, Gracey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenard Ezell. It is only because today's dairyman has been so efficient that he has been able to keep pace with rising costs. Now, even his efficiency can't hold up to inflation. Unless we are prepared to have a severe milk shortage, the price of milk must keep pace with other parts of the economy. Kentucky's Princess knows her subject. She lives on a 234 acre farm producing 1,000,000 pounds of milk each year. And she's no foreigner to the cow ring. A graduate of Christian County High School, Sherry is a Sophomore at the University of Kentucky. She attended Alex Adams School of Modeling. She has been an active 4-H member, was the 1972 winner in the State 4-H Fashion Revue, and participated in the national 4-H Revue in Chicago. In addition to her knowledge of dairying and farming, Sherry Ezell is a related and accomplished speaker who "really likes people" and it shows in her activities as Dairy Princess. She is a full time summer employee of American Dairy Association of Kentucky.

In talks before statewide group Miss Ezell is telling the public that...

The winner will compete in the District meeting to be held at Mayville in October.

Sen. Huddleston explains new farm bill

Senator Walter Dee Huddleston says the new Farm Bill passed by the Senate is based on the premise that "Americans as consumers will benefit from the increase of a healthy and diversified farm economy." The Senate bill substitutes a "target price" concept for the existing farm price support program. Under this system, price supports will be employed only when the market price falls below a specified target price—42¢ per bushel for wheat; $1.50 per bushel for corn, and 61 cents a pound for cotton. "If the average market price during the first five months of the marketing year is above these levels, the farmer receives no payment at all," said Huddleston, who is a member of the Agriculture Committee that drafted the legislation. "If the market price is below the target price, then the farmer receives the difference between the average market price and the specified target price." The Kentucky senator said the advantages of the new concept is that it reduces government expenditures for support programs when market prices are good, but also "guarantees" that the farmer will receive adequate support when market prices fall below what is necessary for the farmer to meet production costs and achieve a fair return on his investment. Huddleston said the new concept a method whereby "farmers and consumers can work together for the mutual benefit of both."

Check with ASC office about fuel supplies

In keeping with the Federal Government's effort to keep on top of the fuel supply problems, the Office of Oil and Gas (OOG), Department of Interior, requests that anyone who feels that he is not receiving his proper allocation of fuel supplies, file a complaint to the OOG. These complaints can now be channeled through the Nicholas County ASCS Office, states T. M. McClain, director. A complaint is filed at the County Office and is immediately transmitted to the State ASCS Office and then to the OOG. "The Allocation Program is based on the guidelines for Allocation of crude oil and refinery products issued by the OOG. A copy of these guidelines are available at the ASCS Office. This allocation program now relies on "Voluntary Compliance." The guidelines call for a supply of no less than the proportion of the last quarter of 1971 and the first three quarters of 1972 sales to independent and other customers at prices not to exceed posted and rack prices charged by refiners, marketers, distributors and jobbers. The guidelines list priorities to be observed. The highest priority will be given to meeting the needs of those activities and services directly related to the cultivation, production and preservation of food. Additional information can be obtained from your local ASCS Office.
